Petition to state DPU delayed

The Wilmington Chamber of Commerce petition to the Massachusetts Department of Public Utilities (DPU) which was to be filed this week, will probably be filed in another week or so, the directors of the Chamber of Commerce learned Tuesday afternoon.

Attorney Jeff Bernstein told the directors that a few changes would have to be made in the wording. He spoke to the directors at the end of their regular meeting.

One of the developments he is awaiting is the meeting of the Lynnfield Selectmen, next week. This paper had been told that those selectmen had voted to become a party to the petition against the Reading Municipal Light Board (RMLD). Bernstein said that the vote would not take place until Monday.

Speaking of the decision of the DPU against certain utilities and the MMWEC organization, of Massachusetts Municipal Light Companies, Bernstein said that there had been an appeal. That appeal, he said, goes directly to the Massachusetts Supreme Court.

Bernstein reviewed some of the options open to MMWEC. That organization, he said, can ask the participating towns (such as Reading, Ed.) to vote for some General Obligation bonds, so as to bypass the DPU ruling. Such bonds would need a two-thirds favorable vote in town meeting.

Another option is to build into the electric light rate charges for construction - the so-called Construction Work in Progress (CWIP). In Reading, it was his belief, this would mean an increase of 30 to 40 percent in the light bills, at "one fell swoop."

MMWEC's feeling, Bernstein said, seems to him to be a belief that the action has to be unanimous. It seems to Bernstein that there is a good chance that the Seabrook construction will be abandoned.

MMWEC Board of Directors is to have a meeting Thursday, and there is to be participants meeting in a few weeks. There could be, he said, a discussion about increasing rates, on the part of all towns. The RMLD board does have the authority for such CWIP rates, but he does not know how the RMLD board would be disposed to such action.

His firm figures that the RMLD pays one percent of the annual construction cost of the Seabrook project. That would be about $500,000 a year.

It is a good time, Bernstein said, to file a case in the DPU, just after the DPU has completed the Seabrook case. The arguments to be presented will be arguments that the DPU will be pre-disposed to hear.

In addition his firm has found two cases of former decisions of the DPU which bear almost directly on the Wilmington case. DPU filings are difficult to search out, one has to go through case by case to find the subject being sought, Bernstein said.

In a case involving the town of Groveland, some years ago, the DPU issued an order regarding revenues to the town, over eight percent. It is very similar to the case of the Reading revenues.

Bernstein will file for rates and set schedules. The burden will be on the RMLD to prove their practices, and that the town is not making over eight percent.

In actual practice, Bernstein told the board, Reading is charging much more - up to 25 percent in some instances, plus a negative rate, for street lights in Reading. Analysts, he said, have shown that certain classes of Reading customers are losing a million dollars a year, and this has been going on for three years.

The emphasis, he said, is the outlying towns against the practices for the Town of Reading. The Chamber, he said, is not asking for an absolute parity against Reading.

It may take several months after the appeal has been filed, to complete the investigation. Paul Chernick, an analyst, is in the case with Bernstein, checking on the figures of the RMLD. There is a computer ready which has been set up for the purpose of analyzing the data and rates of the RMLD.

Mail destroyed in fire

A fire in a mailbox in Wilmington destroyed an unknown quantity of mail late Monday afternoon. The mailbox, located at Lowell and Woburn Streets, in front of Wilmington Office Supply, was discovered burning at 5:30 p.m. Mail had been picked up at 3:30 p.m. William Drummond of the Wilmington Post Office said that most of the mail was destroyed beyond recognition. It was obvious that there were several billing payments, as well as a roll of film, among the destroyed mail.

Pops concert

The Wilmington High School Jazz-Rock Ensemble will perform at the West Intermediate School on Thurs., April 11 at 7:30 p.m. Tickets will be available at the door, $2 for adults and $1 for children under 12.

Winter or spring?
That white, fluffy stuff on the fender of a carnival truck at St. Dorothy's Church wasn't cotton candy. A fast-moving snowstorm dropped three inches of snow on Wilmington Monday morning, but by afternoon, the weather was warm and sunny. Larry Cushing's carnival will be at St. Dorothy's through this weekend.

Regional Health Center presents 'Living on a Special Diet'

For those following a special diet for weight reduction, or controlling medical problems (diabetes, high blood pressure or heart disease, for examples), the Regional Health Center in Wilmington is offering a three-part workshop "Living on a Special Diet."

The series will focus on recipes selection, substituting ingredients, shopping tips, reading nutritional contents labels during the first session. The next session will center on cooking methods and recipe comparisons and the last session will focus on eating for special occasions and dining out.

The program will be conducted on Tuesday, April 23, 30 and May 7 from 7 to 9 p.m. coordinated by Elvira Q. Johnson, R.D., M.S., nutrition services coordinator, and implemented by seniors from Framingham State College who are eligible to become registered dietitians. They are dietetics students with experience in teaching and food preparation.

Each session of the program will feature food demonstrations and tasting, audiovisual presentations, handouts, a free recipe book and other materials. Each session will emphasize the importance of lowering fat, sugar, calories and cholesterol while increasing potassium and fiber. Participants are encouraged to take in a favorite recipe which they would like modified for their diets while still enjoying the food item.

The program will be geared to the needs of the participants so pre-registration is required by calling 657-3910, ext. 567. There is a modest fee to cover the cost of food and materials. Participants will have the option of signing up for individual sessions, however, registering for the three-week series is preferred.

Korean infant arrives at home of Wilmington couple

by Arlene Surprenant
The Easter Bunny brought a special gift to Ken and Diane Marsh of Taft Road in the form of four month old Vanessa Eileen Jun. Vanessa, born in Pusan City, Korea on December 7, was officially adopted by the Marshes in January and flown to Boston Saturday evening, along with five other Korean babies waiting to be adopted by American parents.

"Oh my God, there she is — our little Megabucks," Diane remembers thinking as Vanessa was carried, smiling, off the plane.

Ken said that friends and relatives accompanying them "must have taken a million pictures." Through it all, though Vanessa acted "terrific" and was just like "a little ham."

"I was so excited and relieved at the same time," Ken added. All he could think of was how beautiful his daughter was, as he compared her mentally to the only photo he had of her — one taken at two weeks old.

A lot of searching and emotional ups and downs led up to this culminating moment.

The Marshes have been married four years. After two years of trying to conceive, they decided to go through the adoption process as "thousands of others" have done in the past.

After sifting through many agencies, they finally settled on the International Adoption Agency in Newton. They proceeded to adopt a Korean child because, as Diane tells it, "Koreans have high standards and take care of their own."

Also, added Ken, there have been at least two Korean babies adopted by Wilmington couples in recent years and several by Tewksbury parents.

After birth, Vanessa was placed in a foster home rather than an orphanage where she received "a lot of one on one attention," explained Diane. In the months of anticipation and waiting, the Marshes were kept busy decorating an all pink nursery for their daughter and being showered with baby gifts and clothing from family and friends.

They also made the decision to keep the baby's last name of Jun to remind Vanessa of her Korean heritage. When she reaches school age, they will tell her of her birth country. And, if all goes well, they anticipate adopting a little brother or sister for their daughter.

Ken, an electrician with the Massachusetts Electric Construction Co. in Allston, took a few days off to "lend moral support" to his wife. Diane, a secretary with the county hospital in Waltham, took a more extended leave to get used to her new role as a first time mother.

On Monday, the whole family went to the family doctor for Vanessa's first check-up where she was declared "a picture of health."

In fact, the only thing that needs "straightening out," laughs the proud mother, is Vanessa's days and nights.

Because of jet lag and the time difference between the United States and her home country, Vanessa sleeps approximately seven hours during the day and an hour or so in the evening.

Ken claims they've "padlocked" the doors for a few days to allow them all to get adjusted and acquainted and perhaps grab a quick nap now and then.

But, adds Ken with a touch of fatherly pride, "I can't wait to show her off."

High school renovation may cost $1.2m more

by Arlene Surprenant
An additional $1.2 million — purely a "rough estimate" that needs further analysis according to Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski — may be added to the $6.5 million bond issue for the high school renovation project.

This money would cover those items deleted from the original project concept and include auditorium renovation and repair work, bleachers for the football field, resurfacing the tennis courts, plantings and asphalt pavings, and gym bleachers. It would also include a request from the superintendent of public buildings to do further renovation on the auditorium and move the carriage house.

The list of deleted items was requested by Fincom Chairman Dennis Volpe in an attempt to look at all costs needed to complete the renovation.

Now, said Stapczynski, he'd like to "initiate some discussion among those concerned to see if there's a consensus on what to do next." He would be willing, he added, to move in the direction of that consensus.

One possibility might be to seek an addendum to the $6.5 million bond issue which would require town vote to override Proposition Two and a Half. If that's the direction in which they decide to go, the issue could be brought before voters at a town meeting held in the fall or spring of 1986, Stapczynski said.

There is also the possibility of state funding through the School Building Assistance Bureau.

At Monday's selectmen's meeting, Chairman Jim Stewart was against any attempt to add to the $6.5 million bond issue.

He thought the general idea was to keep within the Proposition Two and a Half limit. This was the concern of "90 per cent of the voters," Stewart said.

Selectman Rocco DePasquale explained that the Permanent Building Committee (PBC) found costs were higher than preliminary figures so they had to cut some items from their priority list. This would be an attempt to complete the renovation with the original items. Town residents should at least have the opportunity to look at and vote on these items again, he said.

Many changes in Wilmington's Ballardvale Street area

A new 12 inch water main for Ballardvale Street, Wilmington will probably be constructed this summer. It is being planned to go as far as the Sons of Italy property, and may go further.

The Water and Sewer Commissioners on April 4 discussed the planning of Ballardvale water and sewer mains with Frank Soracco of the Tambone Corporation and Bernie Paquin of Dana Perkins, engineers. There is an organization known as the Ballardvale Sewer Trust which is constructing sewers for that area, under the supervision of the Water and Sewer Commissioners.

Soracco had proposed preliminary plans for both. The water main was to be 10 inches in diameter, to the Tambone buildings, and a smaller main, to the Sons of Italy building.

Both proposals were discussed. The water main, Chairman George Allan said, would have to be not 10 inches, but more. This meant 12 inches. It could not go across any private land. The Water Department is planning to have a water tower on the hill in back of the Sons of Italy building. That is why the big main is wanted.

There will have to be conversations with the directors of the Sons of Italy, concerning the water main, and the sewer installation.

There will also have to be, it seems, conversations with the Howland Development Corp. That firm owns land which is northerly of the Sons of Italy property, land which is being developed.

Rock remover

A contractor's bulldozer removes a small part of the tons of rock being leveled along Ballardvale street. The dozer is working on the former McLaughlin property.

Howland, a few weeks ago, negotiated a water main from the Town of Andover, because the firm felt that the water from Wilmington would not be immediately available. It was also entertaining sewer plans.

Chairman George Allan said that Howland would have a problem installing the sewer. He would have to prove his water consumption figures, to use the sewer going through Wilmington to Boston. Estimates could not do, the figures had to be verifiable.

That seems to put Howland in the position of getting their water from Wilmington, and using the Wilmington sewer, or getting their water from Andover, and using the Andover sewer. Boiled down, the ultimate choice seems to be Wilmington sewer and Wilmington water.

If the parties agree, the sewer can cross private properties, to go from one area to another, Soracco was told. If a sewer is to go to the Howland property the commissioners want a right of way that will be 30 feet wide, for a permanent easement. That, it seems, will have to be negotiated with the directors of the Sons of Italy.

A year or so ago Ballardvale Street had more than just a few private homes, but such is no longer the case. As of a week ago there were only three homes at the end of the street, and one other westerly of Ballardvale Street. The three at the north end may have been destroyed at this time.

Another home, which is at the north end, and is in Andover, is being converted into a restaurant.

There are several dozen industrial and business buildings along the southerly part of Ballardvale Street. This includes the Charles River Breeding Laboratories, which located in Wilmington 30 years ago. Those firms are being serviced by the Rural Free Delivery mail carrier, but the homes which used to be so serviced are gone.

The former home owners have sold out at prices which were high enough to make them happy.

Patsy Spinoza had 2.25 acres of land. It was sold for $81,000. Nearby was the Tallini land, five and one-half acres. It was sold for $243,989.

Many will remember Vinnie Anoministo. A summer time taxi driver, he lived on land he inherited from his parents. Sixteen acres brought him the tidy sum of $441,891.

The best sale seems to be that of Anthony Paolini. He had 41.9 acres, which he bought in recent years. That land was sold for $1,257,138.

The Sons of Italy property still belongs to that organization. It was zoned industrial about five years ago, and remains in that classification. If memory serves correctly there is five acres in that plot of land. That is a lot of land for one building.

The lion will get you, if you don't look out!

Ant trap

An antlion hole, outside the front door of the Town Crier office, is a sure sign of spring.

You would expect to find a lion in a zoo or a circus. And, of course, lions can be found in central and southern Africa.

But there are lions in Middlesex County, Massachusetts. At the present time one has taken up residence just outside the Town Crier office in North Wilmington.

It is a sure sign of spring when an antlion digs a hole in a nice warm, sunny bit of sand. It takes a sharp eye to detect the hole. But there are a lot of them now, in the area. The reader might find some right in the back yard of his home.

In this case, it is the larva which gives the insect its name.

The insect is known as a member of the genus Myrmeleon.

The larva in the early spring digs a conical hole, about one inch deep, in small-grained sand.

That hole is a slippery trap for any ant which might investigate the area. Once the ant goes over the edge of the slope, it is a goner. Try as the ant may, the sand rolls away from under its feet, and also serves to alert the antlion, waiting under the sand at the bottom of the hole.

In a few seconds it is all over. The ant disappears beneath the sand at the bottom of the hole, and becomes the latest meal for the antlion.

Condos, water and traffic

Some neighbors of the proposed condominiums off Burlington Avenue in Wilmington took part in a meeting a couple of weeks ago to discuss the project. Some were in favor. Others were not. Some had not made up their minds.

It is to be doubted that many actually read the current bylaw of Wilmington, under which condominiums, if approved by the town meeting, may be built. It is known as PRD zoning, for Planned Residential Development.

That new bylaw got a rough treatment in a special meeting in March. Two controversial articles had been proposed: a hotel, and condominiums.

In a special town meeting such proposals can bring out voters who will be coalescing their interests to defeat both articles.

Many of those voters never return, having defeated the one thing in which they were interested. That is regrettable. They are not taking a real part in their town government.

Voters were expressing fears of (1) water in cellars and (2) fear of increased traffic.

Both are good subjects to discuss. Cellars of condominiums, proposed, in Wilmington will not add to the water level of present day cellars in Wilmington. Neither is there any threat of increased auto traffic, when that traffic is compared to that emanating from regular homes in Wilmington.

Water seeks its own level. Any child who studies high school physics learns that fact.

Water in the cellar of any home generally means the cellar is dug too deeply, or else it is on the side of a clay hill and was constructed without proper drainage.

There is a cement block house on Glen Road, near Silver Lake. It was constructed in 1912 by a stonemason named Peter Neilson.

James Kelley was town clerk in those years. Jim, who had a flowing white beard used to go around town in his horse drawn buggy, just to see what was happening.

Peter Neilson had completed the digging of the cellar. He was starting to lay the foundation stones when Jim Kelley appeared. Jim walked around the cellar, and then said "Raise it up a foot."

Peter Neilson heard him. He walked over and looked at the flood level of Lubbers Brook. He again considered the probable spring flood level of Silver Lake. It seemed he had not dug too deeply.

But, to be safe, he raised the foundation six inches.

Next spring Peter Neilson had six inches of water in the cellar. It was coming from the spring flood level of Silver Lake. He finally cleared up the problem by digging a trench around the house, and installing tile drain pipe, to Lubbers Brook.

That is something that cannot always be done, to homes which have water in the cellar.

After Jim Kelley retired there was no one around to look at the cellars. Homes which were built in the late 1920s and later off King Street are included in that statement.

Cellars were built by inexperienced persons. There was no Jim Kelley. There has been water in those cellars, in many instances, ever since. Of course it is a nuisance, to say the least. But construction nearby is seldom the cause of water in an existing cellar.

Auto traffic is another problem. Many blame out-of-town drivers. That is an easy thing to do, and it is hard to prove it isn't so, to a person who cannot be reasoned with.

How many families in Wilmington, or Burlington, or Tewksbury, or anywhere else have four or more cars to the family? And, why are there four or more cars?

There is a simple reason. To have four cars in a family there must be four or more people, or else a lot of well-to-do people. And generally, when there are three or four cars, there are three or four bedrooms.

By and large it is families with grown youngsters, 17 years old or older, which have four or more cars.

Look at the streets of Wilmington, or of other towns which complain of these problems. How many have cars are parked outside many houses, every night?

Morning and evening traffic jams are caused by (in part) conditions such as these. That morning and evening traffic problem in Wilmington Square, which the planning board foresaw a quarter of a century ago, is to a large degree caused by Tewksbury or Billerica residents on the way to or from Route 93, as well as Wilmington residents on their way to work in Woburn or Burlington.

Even if there were condominiums in Wilmington the blame could not be shifted to them. There are only two bedrooms to be allowed, under the Wilmington bylaws. A two bedroom condominium unit should produce less traffic than a three or four bedroom house.

Wilmington freshmen at intermediate schools next year

by Arlene Surprenant
The present eighth grade classes will be staying at their respective schools as freshmen next year instead of moving to the high school, due to the renovation construction slated to begin after the ground-breaking in August.

Students taking industrial arts classes will be housed in the Swain School, which will be fixed up for that purpose.

Superintendent Dr. Carol Sager and school committee members reached this decision last Wednesday night, after deliberating on seven space options presented by Assistant Superintendent Robert Horan.

Dr. Sager recommended the plan as the "least disruptive" to the school community at large. It would provide the necessary flexibility, "a good, solid education," and the opportunity for ninth grade participation in extra curricular activities, she said.

It is also one of the more expensive options, adding $119,240 to the original budget brought before the fincom two weeks ago. This brings the school budget total to $9,838,412.

In making her motion to accept the recommendation, School Committee Chairperson Linda McMenimen pointed out some advantages of the plan. The principals already know the students and the two extra assistant principals who will be hired will help in a supervisory capacity, she said. All educational opportunities will still be available, though she said typing and shop courses could be postponed for one year to save money. If this were done, the ninth graders would be the first class to use the new facilities they would have to "sacrifice" for one year.

With the implementation of this plan, the school day will work around the intermediate school hours and a seven period bell schedule. At least one teacher in each subject will be transferred to the intermediate schools. And students would be bused to after school activities at the high school.

How do the students themselves feel about this decision?

Jennifer Bissett spoke up for some of her classmates when she said "I feel we don't belong anywhere." One parent, Mrs. Ouelette, expressed fears that the present eighth graders would become isolated from upperclassmen next year, though West Intermediate Principal William Fay stressed that "We will make every effort to equalize social interaction."

Other options under consideration included a cluster arrangement of students in different town buildings, double sessions, a staggered start schedule, and movement of the two eighth grades into one at the West, utilizing the North Intermediate as a high school campus.

One idea previously looked at but summarily dismissed as "exceptionally costly" was the use of portable classrooms.

Horan said they had to base their decision on the projected student body enrollment next year and the impact study plan presented to him by the Permanent Building Committee (PBC).

PBC Chairman Diane Allan explained that when school reopens in September, 144 students would be immediately impacted as six classrooms will be under construction. Also impacted will be art, photography, industrial arts, and physical education classes. In January 1986, with the new gym under construction, all physical education, industrial arts, and athletic programs will be impacted.

And June 1, 1986, PBC members are asking that the high school building be completely vacated for a three month period to begin extensive work on classrooms in the science area.

YMCA offers teen aerobics

Teen aerobics is a new class being sponsored this spring at the Greater Lowell Family YMCA. For boys and girls ages 10-14, the class features aerobic exercises set to music and is designed to promote flexibility, muscle toning and strength, cardio-vascular endurance and weight control.

The program begins April 25, meeting Monday, Wednesday, Friday from 4 to 4:45 p.m. and registration may be made starting April 8. For further information call Maureen Conrad at 454-7825.

Cable television hearing draws angry crowd

The hottest show on television Tuesday night wasn't on television. It was live at the Wilmington Town Hall.

More than 50 persons assembled for a hearing on the application of the Greater Boston Cable Corp. (GBCC) to renew its franchise to provide cable tv service in Wilmington. With two years left in the current 15-year franchise, the town is studying its options. The GBCC application is considered a proposal which is subject to negotiation.

Under the GBCC proposal, the existing 28-channel system would be upgraded to one with 55 channels. The company would install new equipment throughout the town, including a converter known as the "Scientific Atlanta" system.

Many speakers up were critical of the proposal to use the Scientific Atlanta system, because of restrictions that it would impose. For example, it would cost an additional $5.95 a month for a separate box to hook up to a video recorder (VCR), and even then the VCR could not be programmed to record from more than one channel.

Bill MacKinnon of Moore Street called this a diminution of service and a barefaced way to increase charges.

Other speakers were critical of the existing service. Merle Eastman of Brand Avenue presented Richard Wadman with a bag containing his control box. Eastman said he had tried unsuccessfully several times to cancel his service. He finally stopped paying his bill, but the company had not disconnected his service.

May Bliss of Glen Road also complained of service, saying that her television was absolutely no good to her.

A principal complaint concerned the firm's telephone lines, which callers frequently find busy. Wadman said that new telephone lines had been added, with special lines for service calls and for billing problems.

Walter Kaminski wanted to know if the proposed costs would remain stable, and if the town would have the right to approve any rate changes.

Atty. Richard Capeless said that the Mass. Cable Commission had removed rate control from cable tv except in areas where cable was essential. The town and the company could agree to rates, which would be binding for no more than two years, he said.

The renewal application was for a 10-year contract. Jim Stewart, chairman of the Board of Selectmen asked what the minimum number of years could be.

"The minimum is the lowest number of years that the company would be foolish enough to take," said Capeless.

Members of the Woburn Cable Advisory Board were present. Mark Ketrick said that GBCC had converted Woburn to the new system in 1984 and, he said, "all Hell broke loose."

"You have a chance to address this before the fact, not after the fact," he said.

Steve Kent of Houghton Road, an electronic engineer with Ph.D. from M.I.T., asked why other technologies were not being considered. He said that the only problem he saw was with the technology of the system the company has chosen.

Wadman said that the Scientific Atlanta system would allow a subscriber to have new channels added instantly, without the need of a house call.

Of primary importance to the company is the system's ability to prevent illegal hookups. The system is "addressable," meaning that the company controls each subscriber's signal from a control panel at the studio.

One man asserted that once the cable entered his house, he could hook up as many sets as he wanted. Atty. Capeless informed him that this was illegal.

The company's application is available for public review. Copies are at the Town Hall and at the Wilmington Memorial Library.

Cutting the cable

Merle Eastman of Brand Avenue, Wilmington opened the cable television hearing with a surprise Tuesday evening. He presented Richard Wadman with a bag containing the control box for his cable hookup, cancelling his service.

WHS has computer bulletin board

Wilmington High School has recently inaugurated a computer bulletin board, the first public school board in the area. Anyone with a computer at home and a device called a "modem" can telephone 657-4735 and communicate with the school's IBM computer network.

David Patterson, Jeff Perkins and other students at Wilmington High serve as "junior system operators" for the board by taking responsibility for monitoring messages, setting up the board after school each day, and shutting it down in the morning. The board operates from 4:00 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. each school day and 24 hours over the weekend and during school vacations.

The most popular use of the board is as a message center. People telephone and leave both private messages for each other and public messages for all callers. Word of a new computer bulletin board travels quickly from one board to another, and as news of Wilmington's new board spread, computer users telephoned to welcome us "on line" and to offer congratulations. In its first month of operation, the board attracted callers from throughout greater Boston and from as far away as Texas.

The bulletin board also provides help with homework problems. Anyone with a question about an assignment is encouraged to phone the board and leave the question for other callers, who are then invited to offer hints or advice. Expert help is provided by Benjamin Levy, system operator for the bulletin board and chairman of Wilmington's Mathematics Department, who telephones the board each evening from his home computer.

Wilmington High School students also use the bulletin board to transfer computer programs back and forth between their home computers and the school's IBM network. This process is also being used by students who write an essay on a home computer and then transfer it through the bulletin board for printing on one of the high school's dot matrix and daisy wheel printers.

In its first month of operation, Wilmington's computer bulletin board has been very successful. As more families purchase computers for home use, Mr. Levy believes that this board will become a valuable resource for the entire community. He notes, for example, that because the high school now has a remote bulletin board, families may purchase any brand of computer for the home and still be able to communicate with the school's computers.

Parents who have a question about the bulletin, or about the educational value of a home computer, are invited to telephone Mr. Levy at 658-4581 (old fashioned voice communication).

Masons to hold Past Masters' Night

Friendship Lodge will conduct a Past Masters' Night Wednesday, April 17, at the lodge of apartments on Church Street, Wilmington.

The lodge will honor its past masters with a dinner, making recognition of their past faithful service to the lodge.

The lodge will open at 6 p.m. on the Master Mason Degree under the direction of past masters. Three candidates will be raised by the past masters, one candidate will be raised by his grandfather who is a past master of Friendship Lodge.

Brothers James F. Hallett and Edwin L. Fiske will be presented with a 50 year medal for their 50 year membership.

All dinner reservations must be made early. Call 658-4452 or 658-6165.

Rusty brothers or non-members of this lodge should arrive 15 minutes early with dues cards and a brother will help them work into the lodge.

Choate-Symmes has new program: lab tests at home

Laboratory services at Choate-Symmes Health Services, Inc., branched out a year ago to include a home visit program, and the results of that first year are impressive.

According to Sandra Saleeba, administrative director, there has been "a remarkable increase" in the number of laboratory tests completed in the year. For example, the number of patients has increased from nine to 41 and the number of tests from 24 to 77.

Under the program, a team of lab technologists and phlebotomists shares the responsibility of visiting people who require regular lab tests, but who find it difficult to get out of the house. Patients are referred to the program by either their physician or by a visiting nurse association. Ms. Saleeba emphasized that the program is geared to the elderly or handicapped: "The real key is to visit those who are confined and can't get out."

Test results are reported to the patient's physician, or to the visiting nurse association, and the patient incurs no additional cost. Ms. Saleeba said that medical insurance covers tests done in the home, as long as the patient's policy covers lab work.

She noted that the home visit program has become something more than just the taking of lab tests. Very often, the lab technologist provides some brief, but very much needed companionship for those who are house-bound. "Many of the people look forward to the visits. They like to talk. What happens is more than just lab work."

The home visit program is an example of Choate-Symmes' goal to serve the community. "At Choate-Symmes, we are concerned with providing total service to our area patients," said Ms. Saleeba.

She added that the home visits are an outgrowth of work being done with the local councils on aging, who found that there was a need for home visits.

Neil Stroman, vice president of clinical services, said he is "very excited about the home visit program. It is part of our commitment to the community to provide services to the patients." He looks forward to a bright future for the program and continued growth.

Jackie Keshian, R.N., of the Arlington Council on Aging, commented, "I definitely see a need for home visits. Getting out is hard sometimes for the elderly. They are frail and it can be a big chore to go out. Very often, they also don't have a means of transportation."

The home visit program also helps people with chronic illnesses like diabetes, for it helps them stay on a regular test schedule, said Mrs. Keshian.

Her agency has referred many residents to the Choate-Symmes program as has Visiting Nurse & Community Health, Inc. (VNCH) of Arlington. Sally D'Alesandro, acting clinical supervisor for VNCH's Arlington team, said that the program "is a valuable service," and that those taking advantage of it are pleased with it.

Elect Shirley CALLAN Wilmington School Committee

Dear Voters:

As the April 20th election draws near, I wish to thank you for the support and encouragement you have given to my wife, Shirley, in her campaign for a seat on the Wilmington School Committee.

During my 12 years as Town Moderator, prior to that as a member of an Advisory By-Laws Committee and Chairman of the Permanent Building Committee, I had the opportunity to observe, from a unique position, individuals and committee members at work on municipal matters, and to see which qualities some individuals possessed which made them effective and contributed to the betterment of our community. Among these qualities are enthusiasm, dedication, intelligence, and hard work. To bring such qualities to the forefront, however, one must be mature, articulate and have a sense of commitment.

Shirley has demonstrated these qualities time and time again, not only as a wife and mother, but as a member of the Board of Library Trustees, by her initiative in saving the Harnden Tavern, and by returning to pursue her education and graduate degrees after our three sons had grown up. Shirley has a strong sense of ethics and rightness, and she lives her beliefs. If I were to use two words to describe her, they would be "integrity" and "independence."

Having been at Shirley's side throughout this campaign, I feel a sense of pride and admiration for her hard work and enthusiasm. Her commitment to education as well as community, her energy, compassion and dedication are rare qualities of strength which support her candidacy. I am certain that such qualifications will be a distinct and valued asset on the Wilmington School Committee, and I ask that you join with me in voting for her.

Sincerely,

John M. Callan

Belluche named to health center board

Joan E. Belluche of David Morris Road, Tewksbury, has been appointed to the Community Board of Directors of the Regional Health Center in Wilmington (RHCW).

Belluche is a registered nurse at Tewksbury Hospital where she is responsible for the orientation of new female employees and the in-service education of new nursing graduates.

She is active in the St. William's Sodality, the Central Catholic High School Marist Guild, and the St. William's CCD program. She also participates in the St. William's Christmas Fair and has served with the American Red Cross in Cambridge.

The Tewksbury resident is a graduate of the Mt. Auburn Hospital School of Nursing and holds a bachelor of science degree from Boston College School of Nursing.

She and her husband, Robert F. Belluche, have three sons, Kevin and Terrence, students at Central Catholic High School in Lawrence, and Mark, a student at Tewksbury Junior High School.

The RHCW Community Board has been instrumental in shaping the growth and development of the health center, and continues to play an active role in its operation.

Led by Marjorie Mosher of Wilmington, the board meets monthly to discuss and decide policies and issues facing the health center. Representatives on the board come from area communities including Wilmington, Tewksbury, Reading and North Reading.

Rec programs rolling in spite of low budget

by Arlene Surprenant
Describing his department as "pretty much a oneman department" run on a seasonal basis, Recreation Director Ron Swasey brought selectmen up to date on recreation and leisure time offerings to Wilmington residents.

Swasey stressed that with financial restraints, he relies on sponsorship and funds from local organizations and volunteer help to keep his department running as well as it has in the past.

When people say there isn't much recreation available in Wilmington, Swasey said, what they're really referring to is commercial recreation.

"That's where we hurt as a town," he said.

He pointed to some of the recreation department's more popular offerings.

There has always been a "very good following" for most of their bus trips, Swasey said. There are other bus tours locally but "they can't compete with ours because we give away doughnuts," he laughed.

Swimming lessons at Shawsheen Tech are "one of our bigger and better programs," he said. Also approximately a dozen concerts, another popular offering, will be slated for the town common this summer.

The recreation department also offers different sports programs, Swasey said, but the philosophy is not to turn into a "professional training center for one particular sport." When youngsters reach a certain proficiency in gymnastics, for example, they should move on to Montvale or another professionally run program, Swasey said.

Future programs will include a fishing derby at Silver Lake, a trip to DisneyWorld, a possible health fitness program for town employees, and several sports clinics, he said.

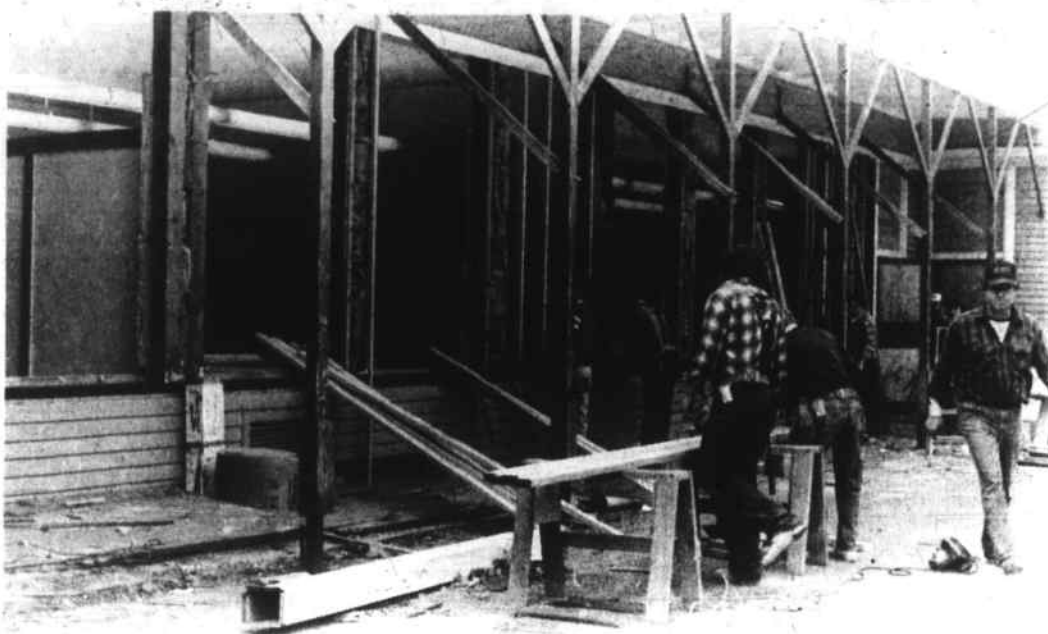

Swasey pointed out that with the cost of popular sports camps being so prohibitive, he hopes to keep people in their own town through offering sports clinics for a "ridiculously low price." For these, they will utilize the talents of volunteers such as the N.Y. Giants football player who came through his door and volunteered Monday morning.

Swasey said he was especially pleased that the town hall grounds will have some playground equipment for the recreation department's use this summer, thanks to the Rotary Club. And he pointed out that discount tickets for many places and events are always available to residents at the recreation office. Already some 300 packets have been given away to families visiting Florida.

"I think you do a fantastic job," praised Selectman Chairman Jim Stewart. It's a credit to Swasey's ability, Stewart said, that he is able to develop a program this large considering the budget he has to work with.

Spotlighters finally find a home in Woburn

It may have taken longer than planned, but the dream of the Silver Lake Spotlighters to create a community arts center has finally come true. Spotlighters' President Celia Bartolotti announced recently that a 10 year lease on a 4,000 square foot carriage house in Woburn is now being finalized.

After renovations are completed the carriage house will become a multi-purpose community arts center, providing performance and rehearsal space for the Silver Lake Spotlighters theatre group and the Young People's Theatre, a small hall for musical recitals, an exhibit area for visual arts, and classroom space for educational programs and workshops in all the arts.

"It's everything we ever hoped for," explained Bar-tolotti, who said discussions concerning the property began last October with the property's owner, Dr. Paul J. Lennon, DDS.

"It has involved a little luck and a great deal of trust," explained Bartolotti, "and we are very near to signing a final lease."

Bartolotti discovered the site by sheer chance. "It was a beautiful day and I decided to drive back to work along Main Street in Woburn instead of my usual route. Suddenly there was that wonderful property and the sign 'Commercial Space for Rent.' I nearly drove into a tree, I was so excited."

Bartolotti spoke with Dr. Lennon over the telephone and explained that the community theatre group had been looking for a permanent site for their arts center since an arson fire destroyed a Wilmington school building they were in the process of converting three years ago. (That fire did thousands of dollars of damage to the structure and wiped out the group's entire inventory. Since then, they have produced theatrical shows, taught dance classes, and started a successful Young People's Theatre, utilizing donated and temporarily rented rehearsal and performance spaces in Stoneham, Melrose, Wilmington and Shirley while continuing to search for a suitable spot for the arts center.)

"Dr. Lennon was immediately interested in what he called our 'vision.' Some of our board of directors and I met with him and toured the building; we knew immediately that the carriage house was a perfect space in an equally perfect location," Bartolotti said.

There followed a number of months of quiet negotiations and what Bartolotti called "intense trust" on Dr. Lennon's part. The Spotlighters needed time to organize their resources to undertake the renovation, work out the construction plans, and prepare for a capital fundraising campaign to support the project. During that time,

Dr. Lennon waited patiently, and enthusiastically, according to Bartolotti.

For the Spotlighters, the waiting is over; the dream is about to become a reality. Now the hard work truly begins.

North Intermediate Student Council to hold pancake breakfast

The North Intermediate Student Council is once again helping people in Wilmington.

In November, the Student Council in conjunction with the Shawheen School Parent Advisory Council presented the Wilmington Memorial Library with a family pass to the Boston Museum of Science. In January, they donated to the library a family pass to the Children's Museum.

On Sunday morning, April 28, they will hold a pancake breakfast. This breakfast will be held at the Knights of Columbus Hall behind St. Thomas Church in Wilmington from 8 to 11:30. The cost of a ticket is $2.25 if bought in advance or $2.75 if purchased at the door. The profit will be divided equally between the Student Council Scholarship Fund and OXFAM, an agency to aid famine victims in Africa.

Tickets and further information may be obtained by contacting Frank Birmingham at the North Intermediate school, 657-7111.

25 years ago

The April 7, 1965 issue of the Town Crier noted:

That according to Bill (Agreeable) Smith, the urban renewal prospects were very good.

The resignation of Superintendent of Schools John Collins was announced.

Bob Hastings of King Street was elected the new Little League president.

Attorney Simon Cutter was named special attorney for the board of health to handle legal work involved with several cases of sub-standard housing in Wilmington.

Judges at the Wilmington High School Science Fair awarded first prize to John Tobey, second to Peter Neilson, third to Roger Luken, fourth to Nancy Allen and fifth to Jon Meads.

On the motion of Joseph Slater, the planning board voted to send a letter to the town manager asking that he have a survey made of the parking needs in Wilmington Center.

The voting list was just 17 short of 5,000.

Ventura Canelas of Tewksbury who had been collecting the garbage in Wilmington for several years lost the contract when he was underbid by $3300. He was wished well by the Town Crier and apparently those wishes came true - (reportedly Mr. Canelas now has a home in Florida and rest of the family is still doing mighty well).

Ruth Howell of Shawheen Avenue enlisted in the Air Force and reported to Lackland Air Base for basic training.

Patsy's Farm on lower Main Street was advertising Easter flowers and fresh white eggs.

Karen Walden of Glendale Circle was capped at Melrose - Wakefield Hospital.

Virginia Rice of Linda Road was appointed clerk of the planning board in place of Sylvia Stanley who resigned.

The Lake Side Boys Club, organized the previous winter by Alma Williams now had 42 members. Boys in the group were required to wear suits and ties at regular meetings; have decent haircuts, no Garrison belts and had to attend church regularly.

Jackie Bowen was president of the group; Ellery Burpee served as vice president, Dickie Allard was the secretary and Johnny Robbins was treasurer.

The board of appeals held a hearing for Sal Provenzano who wanted to complete a garage started in 1946 that was too close to the lot line at 102 West Street.

Liss named agent of year

Ron Liss, president of Ormes Transportation in Wilmington, was recently awarded Agent of the Year and Million Dollar Booker award as well as overall Sales Leader Award for High Technologies Marketing.

"Ormes Transportation has consistently been a top performer," said Cliff Knowles, president of Bekins Van Lines, "and it gives us great pleasure to award their team for their outstanding commitment to quality."

Knowles, Jack Harms, vice president of Household Goods Marketing, and Mike Sullivan, vice president of High Technologies Marketing, presented Liss with the awards at the annual convention: a large assemblage of crystal birds resting on chrome bars attached to a triangular chrome brushed base for the Agent of the Year award; a crystal sculpture for High Tech Sales Leader award; and a 14K gold ring with three diamonds, signifying three years of booking at least one million dollars.

Ormes Transportation serves the Wilmington area and its surrounding communities from its office at 255 Andover Street, Wilmington.

Bekins Van Lines is the nation's fifth largest and fastest growing interstate van line in the industry.

Privately funded sewer for Maple Street gains approval

Construction of another privately funded sewer extension gained conditional approval Tuesday from Tewksbury selectmen acting as the board of public works. The board voted to okay a needed permit that will allow William Ingersoll to install a sewer extension down Maple Street that will serve an eight lot subdivision he is developing there.

The sewer line will run from the Maple Estates project site down Maple Street to the intersection of East Street. The line will then cross East Street, proceed under the Strongwater Brook and connect with the town's sewer pumping station there.

The town could gain a slight benefit from the construction of the Maple Street sewer line in the near future. Future plans call for a town funded sewer line to be installed along East Street running from the Andover town line to the pumping station near Strongwater Brook. Construction of the Maple Street sewer would save the town the cost of installing the East Street crossing and a crossing of the Strongwater Brook. Plans for that town funded East Street sewer are currently being worked on.

Engineers from Camp Dresser and McKee (CDM), the town's sewer consulting firm, said the proposed Maple Street sewer plan will fit into the town's master sewer plan for the area, but expressed concern over how the line would be constructed under the Strongwater Brook. That Strongwater Brook crossing is considered a somewhat delicate and difficult section of the project.

The CDM engineers recommended, and the board agreed, to have a CDM resident engineer on the project site when the developer's contractor, Rockingham Construction, makes the Strongwater Brook crossing. The board also stipulated that the developer foot the entire bill for CDM's services and inspections of the sewer, and that the sewer line meet with CDM specifications.

Construction of the East Street pumping station and installation of a sewer line along the Strongwater Brook has been difficult in the past. It is this area where the main trunk sewer project ran into problems when construction first started. Pipes were installed in that area under contract five, but water problems caused those pipes to sag.

The contract had to be redesigned and the town was involved in a legal case over the matter.

When CDM started work on the project they brought in special de-watering systems that removed water from the ground in areas where construction was ongoing.

Selectman Bill Hallisey, calling the Strongwater Brook crossing the toughest part of the Maple Street sewer project, expressed concern that the contractor be able to complete that part of the project.

Apparently Rockingham Construction has done little work within the town and Hallisey expressed concern that they may not be aware of the special conditions existing around the Strongwater Brook. However, he said that having a CDM engineer on-site would be one way to assure the crossing is done right.

Other board members agreed that the board should take extra caution in the Strongwater Brook portion of the plan.

Because of water pockets found on the Maple Estates site itself, both the planning board and conservation commission stipulated that the development must hook into the town sewerage system when they gave their approval to construct the project.

Motorcycle fatality in Tewksbury

A Billerica woman was struck and killed by a car early last Saturday evening when she fell off a motorcycle that had a tire blow out.

Kimie Iannelli, 21, of 105 Gray St., Billerica, a passenger on a motorcycle being operated by her 26-year-old husband Steven, was pronounced dead at St. John's Hospital in Lowell shortly after the 5:15 p.m. accident on Shawsheen St., Tewksbury.

According to police, the motorcycle was travelling west on Shawsheen Street and had just passed Lowe Street when the front tire had a blow out. The wheel rim dug into the road pavement causing the motorcycle to bounce across the road into the opposite lane of traffic where Steven lost control of it.

As the motorcycle was falling to the ground, Kimie, the mother of a 3-week-old daughter, lost her grip and started falling. Despite swerving to avoid the scene, a vehicle approaching the accident scene from the east struck Kimie as she was falling to the ground. The impact of the collision caused her safety helmet to split in half and fall off her head before she struck the ground.

Police say that eyewitnesses to the accident reported the driver of the car, William Gifford, 30, of Shawsheen St., Tewksbury, tried to avoid the accident by swerving off the roadway and almost smashed into a row of trees. "He did everything he could to get out of the way," said investigating Officer Robert Westaway.

Steven, who managed to maintain his grip on the handlebars of the motorcycle, suffered an abrasion to his right thigh, police said.

Selectmen see presentation on home for autistic children

May Institute representatives Peter Troy and Dr. Steve Luce gave a slide presentation on their group home for autistic children in West Chatham at a meeting of Wilmington selectmen Monday night.

The institute hopes to develop the same concept in Wilmington.

The selectmen were asked to support the institute's request for a home for six autistic children aged five to 16 years, and a professionally trained married couple to be located in Wilmington.

The home, ideally, would be located near a shopping area and would be integrated into the neighborhood. It would also be as close as possible to the youngsters' home environment and, after a period of one year, allow children to be transferred to their own homes.

The single family dwelling would be under the auspices of the Wilmington Housing Authority and would be funded by the state.

Troy has already applied for a Chapter 689 grant to obtain funds from the EOCD. But since some of the money slated for Chapter 689 is presently being used to find homes for Massachusetts' homeless population, their request is "down the list and not a shoo-in by any means," Troy said.

Troy stressed the need for community approval and described the program as positive and "very successful."

Selectmen Chairman Jim Stewart agreed to set up a meeting with housing authority members and let Troy know when they reach a decision.

Relaxation training course

Are you too busy to take care of yourself... Do you feel tired or a lack of energy... Do you have high blood pressure or is stress your problem...

Relaxation training can make a positive difference in one's life. It is the best way to manage stress and is a proven non-medical approach to treating high blood pressure. Relaxation techniques help in weight reduction, stopping smoking and becoming more assertive.

A variety of relaxation techniques will be taught in a fun, practical and informative workshop at the Regional Health Center in Wilmington on Mondays, April 15 through May 13 from 7 to 9 p.m.

Dr. Thomas Thrall, behavioral medicine program director and board-certified internist, will speak at the first session on the medical benefits of relaxation and its use in the treatment of those with mild hypertension.

Techniques taught by Mary McDermott, M.Ed., will include progressive muscle relaxation, guided imagery, visualization, breathing exercises, relaxation response and autogenics. A relaxation training cassette tape and handouts will be included in the course.

Participation is limited to 12 persons per group. Pre-registration is required by calling 657-3910, ext. 567.

Wilmington Women's Club commended

The International Department of the Wilmington Women's Club, under the directorship of Helen Blake, was recently commended by the International Institute of Lowell, Inc. which is a service bureau and cultural center of all nationalities.

Members of the club honored 43 recently naturalized citizens and their guests with a reception, complete with appropriately decorated buffet table, after the ceremony was held at the Lowell Court House.

Several members of the club were present at the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs "Day at the State House" hosted by State Representative James R. Miceli. After a welcome by George Keverian, speaker of the house and William M. Bulger, president of the Senate, the ladies heard messages from Walter Bickford, Division of Fisheries; Margot Botsford from the district attorney's office; Barbara Salisbury, budget director for the office of administration and finance; Evelyn Murphy, economic affairs; Nancy Kaufman, human services; Representative Suzanne Bump; Larry Collins, Boston Globe and Mrs. Theodore Billias, president Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs.

Cancer library presents speakers

During the next two weeks, The Cancer Control Society Library, 299 Main St., Wilmington will sponsor several health professionals teaching and speaking on natural modalities and the wholistic approach to optimal health.

On Wednesday, April 17 at 7:30 p.m., Dr. Kenneth Emonds,

Ph.D., orthomolecular and environmental medicine, family therapy will address the group on "Treating the Whole Person."

Monday, April 22, will find Rick Scalzo, master herbalist and irridologist, speaking on the use of herbs in the total approach to health and will conduct a workshop on irridology entitled, "What the Eye Reveals."

The cost for the program will be $2.00. All citizens interested in wellness through natural approaches are urged to attend. For information and reservations, call 657-8131 between 10 a.m. and 6 p.m.

Health center has new diagnostic treatment

A new diagnostic test has been added to the long list of quality medical services offered at the Regional Health Center in Wilmington (RHCW).

The Radiology Department is now offering xero-mammography services to women seen at the health center or those referred to the health center by physicians who have offices in the community.

An X-ray technologist who specializes in administering xero-mammograms is available at the RHCW Tuesday through Friday during the day and evening hours. The RHCW is the only medical facility in the area to offer xero-mammography services in the evening.

Xero-mammography is an X-ray of the breast, using Xerox copying techniques, which creates an image of the breast on paper and aids physicians in diagnosing possible breast cancer. Prior to the development of xero-mammography, film mammography, using xray technology solely, was used in helping diagnose breast cancer.

According to the American Cancer Society, the use of mammograms has become vital to the earlier diagnosis of breast cancer. The test can detect extremely small cancers, ones that have usually not spread to regional lymph nodes, or cancers that may be located deep within the breast. The earlier breast cancer is discovered, and the smaller it is at the time of discovery, the better the chance for cure.

A xero-mammogram is a safe, painless, non-invasive technique. The American Cancer Society recommends that the exam be given annually or biannually to women beginning at age 40. At the RHCW, results of the procedure and an examination by a certified radiologist are sent to the patient's physician.

Anthony E. Baumstark, M.D., chief of radiology at the RHCW, noted that xero-mammography provides better resolution and better defined pictures than film mammography.

The addition of xero-mammography to the RHCW, he said, "enhances the services we already offer. It helps us increase our commitment to the community. It makes it more convenient for our patients who no longer have to travel elsewhere for the diagnostic procedure."

In conjunction with the new service, Dr. Baumstark and Patricia Trepaney, R.T.R., RHCW radiology coordinator, are planning a series of lectures to explain all aspects of mammography and radiation.

With the addition of a technologist who specialized in mammography, Trepaney is spending more time with the patients who come to the RHCW for the diagnostic test. "We want to help the patients feel comfortable about the exam and help them understand why mammograms are necessary."

Trepaney also answers patients' questions about radiation. The American Cancer Society states that the amount of radiation needed to produce a high quality mammogram is low. An examination by mammography delivers less than one rad. (A rad is the unit that measures radiation absorbed by the breast). This low level, like natural radiation in the environment, places mammography in the acceptably safe range.

For more information about the xero-mammography services, call the RHCW at 657-3910, ext. 509.

Volunteers needed

Wilmington residents willing to share time with lonely, isolated parents from our community are needed as volunteers for Parent Aide Program to serve this area. All that is required from volunteers is time (three to five hours a week), caring, and willingness to listen and understand.

Training, supervision and support will be provided by Woburn Council of Social Concern. For more information please call Nancy at 935-6495.

High tech training to open April 22

The Omega Technical Institute, a high tech training school, will open in Wilmington April 22. Its goal is to provide a skilled and efficient labor force for industries from Concord to Danvers, and from Cambridge to the New Hampshire state line.

The emphasis is on training employees, who will, at the end of a three month course, have full time employment in local industries, in such fields as electronic assemblers, harness assemblers, mechanical assemblers, electronic rework-repair specialists, and quality control inspectors.

The three month course is full time, from 8:15 a.m. to 3:15 p.m. A four month course is also offered from 5 to 9 p.m.

Martin Brooks of Andover and Nancy Carbonneau of Dracut will be in charge. All the equipment to be used is being supplied by local companies, Avco, Compugraphic, Digital or equivalent.

Sixty pupils will be accepted for the session beginning April 22. Future classes will average 40 pupils.

The company was founded by the Bay State Skills Corporation. Fourteen local companies are on the board of directors, nine from Wilmington, two from Woburn and one from North Reading.

A new company, on the average, has joined Bay State Skills Corporation every two months. It is expected that at the end of the year, there will be 20 sponsoring companies.

Excellence in training is the motto of the Omega Training Institute. The school is dedicated to training underemployed and economically disadvantaged individuals to enable them to obtain full employment through state and federally funded training programs. The institute was the recipient of the 1983 - 84 Exemplary Award for Electro-Mechanical Training.

Each trainee will receive assessment, evaluation, vocational counseling, industry certified instructor, an industry curriculum, classroom skills training, hands-on lab applications, tutoring in industry related terminologies, career training workshops, job development, and placement assistance.

Located at 460 Main St., Wilmington, the institute is on the second floor of the new building which also houses Ralph's Auto Parts.

Stop smoking program

Stop smoking and weight control clinics will be held in the Greater Lowell area April 23 as the Greater Lowell Family YMCA once again provides the opportunity for local residents to "reprogram" their emotional subconscious minds to make positive life changes.

Nationally known self-help expert and clinical hypnotist, John Greer said, "your intellectual mind already knows you shouldn't eat too much and that smoking is bad for your health. People still keep overeating and puffing on cigarettes, he said. The key is to get the emotional part of your mind to agree with what the intellect already knows.

Nicotine addiction is not the only thing that keeps smokers from kicking the habit, Greer said. "The psychological hook is the biggest obstacle. The chemical addiction can take much longer, and that's how hypnosis helps."

Emotions also control a person's eating habits, Greer said. "Like smoking, eating feels good. We learn as young children to associate eating with our most pleasant experiences. Our minds need programming to get our subconscious to believe that all sweets are not rewarding, and it's not sinful if we don't eat every bite on our plates."

During each clinic, participants will learn deep relaxation through three hypnotic inductions. A cassette tape and literature will be provided for home use to reinforce the hypnotic suggestions given by the hypnotist.

The clinics will be held at the Greater Lowell Family YMCA April 23, at 6 p.m. for smoking and 8 p.m. for weight control. For more information call 454-7825.

Wilmington man dies in Tewksbury motorcycle accident

A 19-year-old Wilmington man died from injuries he sustained after being thrown from the motorcycle he was riding early last Friday morning in Tewksbury.

According to police, William N. Ryan, 19, of 103 Salem St., Wilmington lost control of his motorcycle while rounding the corner of Pleasant Street and Whipple Road shortly after midnight on April 5. The motorcycle skidded across the road, went over a dirt patch and a small section of lawn before striking a stone wall off Whipple Road. Ryan was flung off the motorcycle and hit a pole at the corner of Whipple Road and Ferncroft Road. Ryan was rushed to St. John's Hospital in Lowell where he was pronounced dead at 12:32 a.m. on April 5. Police say two eye witnesses said Ryan was attempting to bring the motorcycle out of a skid when it struck the wall.

Redmen topple Large School kingpin

The 1985 Tewksbury High School boys' varsity track and field team opened its season impressively this past Wednesday with a convincing 81-64 victory over a talented Billerica squad. The Redmen host one of the Large School favorites April 10 when they meet the Chelmsford Lions, in a 3:30 p.m. meet.

Tewksbury 81 Billerica 64
Billerica, winning the 4x110 yard relay, took the lead in the meet, 53-51 as the momentum seemed to have shifted in their favor. Distance man Steven Murphy, who earlier in the meet won the two mile, led an unexpected sweep by the Redmen in the important 440 yard run. Teammate Joe Hannon, winner of the pole vault, came back in fine form from a foot injury to grab second place in the race.

The spark that seemed to give the Redmen that insurmountable momentum came from third place winner Pat Green, who although running in lane six and trailing by a good 30 yards coming off the final corner, passed his Billerica opponents to grab the final scoring position.

Scott Karlberg edged out teammate Jim Field in the next event, the 300 meter low hurdles, adding to the Redmen lead, while Mike Goodine clinched the victory for the Redmen with a gritty 880 yard run victory.

Mark Christoffels, who earlier in the day won the triple jump with an outstanding leap of more than 41 feet, took second in the long jump and put the icing on the victory with a first place finish in the 200 yard dash.

Many Redmen contributed to Tewksbury's victory over their Large School opponent, as 18 out of 36 Redmen entrants scored.

Other than the performances already cited, Jim Field added to his second in the low hurdles with the same place in the high jump. Co-captain Buddy MacAllister (senior Steven Murphy being the team's other leader) came through with two key second places in the 110 meter high hurdles and the triple jump, while sophomore Robbie Busch was edged out by his Billerica opponent in the mile run.

Scott Karlberg added a third place in the high hurdles, while junior Richie Lapham secured a second place in the 100 meters and a third place in the 220 yard dash.

Brian Tremblay broke the 11 minute barrier in the two mile run for the first time in his running career, nailing down third place in the process, while sophomore Kenn Coviello took third place in both the 100 meters and the long jump.

Junior Doug Noyes took the discus honors, adding a third place in the shot put, and senior Tim Monahan was an impressive winner in the shot put.

Other third place finishers who added to the victory were David French in the javelin, Sean Doherty in the discus, Mike Goodine in the triple jump, Dave Flanagan in the mile, and tough Steve Ellwood in the 880 yard run.

Seventeen-year-old Julie Stedman of Wilmington placed ninth in the downhill competition at the National Handicapped Ski Championships last week at Breckenridge, Colo. Because there were only two entrants in the junior women's class, she had to compete as an adult, in a very competitive field of 18 women. The gold medal in the downhill was won by Diana Golden of Lincoln, Mass., a former world champion. Earlier in the week, she raced in the slalom and the giant slalom, but disqualified after falling in the course.

Above, Julie is shown just after coming out of the starting gate in the downhill. She sustained a minor shoulder injury at the bottom of the course when she hit a fence in the finish area.

Billerica edges promising Tewksbury, 71-60

In their opening track meet of the season, the Tewksbury High School girls track team went down to a narrow defeat, ending up on the short end of a 71-60 score. However, many individuals on the team turned in fine performances, and there were so many freshmen who did well that the team's future looks bright.

April 3 was damp and cold, punctuated by occasional drizzle and snowflakes. It was not an ideal day for a track meet. In the early events Tewksbury held its own against visiting Billerica by coming out of the field events with a two point lead. Nancy Menezes, Tewksbury's outstanding sophomore athlete, won the shot put with a fine 32'8" toss and went on to win the discus handily with a 97'3" throw. Nancy's distances immediately put her among the top shot and discus throwers in the Merrimack Valley Conference.

Fran Mulrain, who has quickly mastered the triple jump (a new event for girls this season), was hopping, stepping and jumping 30'3" to win that event.

Over at the javelin course, Eileen Kiely and Sharon Alley were taking one-two in the spear toss. Renee Juchnevics and Justine Short completed the Tewksbury field event scoring by taking second in the high jump and third in the long jump respectively.

In the running events Tewksbury proved to be dominant in the distance races, while Billerica racked up points in the sprints. Krissie Connor, Tewksbury's dependable freshman distance runner, ran away with the two mile. In the same event Chrissy Frotten ran a courageous race to take third place.

Peggy Forsyth and Sue McLaughlin ran away from the field to take one-two in the mile run and Fran Mulrain completed Tewksbury's distance dominance by blitzing the field in the 880 with a fine 2:30.8 clocking.

Tracy Meehan carried the ball for the Redmen in the hurdles, taking second place in both the 100 and the newly instituted 300 meter hurdle races.

Amy DiGiorgio grabbed third in the 100 meter hurdles and Kris Conley, another promising freshman, ran a strong race to take third in the 300 meters hurdles.

In the sprints Tewksbury runners turned in some fine times and tremendous efforts, but lost out in some cases, by only inches. Renee Juchnevics ran a blistering 220 only to lean across the line a tenth of a second behind Billerica's Stephanie Severo. Justine Short ran a fine 100 meters, but missed second place by a tenth of a second. Kerry Silk ran a 68.6 440, a very good run for a freshman in her first 440 race, but it proved to be only good enough for third place.

Finally the 440 yard relay team of Jennifer Rogers, Renee Juchnevics, Andrea Lombardi and Justine Short ran a fast time, but came in a little short of the Billerica team.

Because many of the Tewksbury point scorers are freshmen who are willing to work hard to improve, future meets may see those tenths of a second that cost them the meet this time eventually come out in their favor.

Coaches Bob MacDougall and Don Ciampa were proud of the team's efforts and are looking forward to the rest of the season with optimism.

North Reading Basketball Camp

The fourth annual North Reading Basketball Camp will be held at North Reading High School from July 22 to August 2. Due to capacity enrollment last summer, the camp will be expanded to two sessions.

The first session, from July 22 to July 26, will be for boys entering grades six, seven and eight. The second session, from July 29 to August 2, will be for boys entering grades eight, nine and 10.

The camp will again be under the direction of North Reading High School basketball coach Barry Kipnes.

Other members of the staff will include Rich Butterworth of Hamilton-Wenham, Joe Casey of Masconomet, John Doherty of North Reading, Paul Finn of Newburyport, Tom Gallagher of Chelmsford and Barry Humphreys of Greater Lowell. Other coaches will be added to the staff at a later date.

The camp day will run from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Heavy emphasis will be placed on fundamentals, and all areas of individual play will be covered. The program of instruction includes drill stations, instructional tapes and lectures.

Tuition for the week is $77.50, which includes a camp t-shirt, certificate of attendance, fundamentals handbook and coach's evaluation. For a brochure or more information, Call Barry Kipnes at 664-2471 or write to Barry Kipnes, B-1 Colonial Drive, Andover, MA 01810.

Junior Chief tryouts

The Lowell Junior Chiefs of the Metropolitan Boston Hockey League will be holding tryouts at the Skate 3 Rink Saturday and Sunday, April 20 and 21, for the fall 1985-86 season. The rink is located on Middlesex Road in Tyngsboro.

The Lowell Junior Chiefs provide players with an alternative to the traditional town programs. Youths from any town and state can tryout for the AAA, AA and Open levels of Mite, Squirt, PeeWee, Bantam and Midget teams.

Players get three to five hours of ice time per week during the season and compete in at least three tournaments.

Metropolitan Boston Hockey

League rules allow slapshots and body checking at all levels. This league's teams are made up of the best skaters in central and southern New England and provides the Lowell Junior Chiefs with the best competition available.

The times for the tryouts on Saturday, April 20 are 10 a.m. for Mites; 11:10 a.m. for Squirts; 12:20 p.m. for PeeWees; 1:30 p.m. for Bantams and 2:40 p.m. for Midgets.

Sunday, April 21 tryouts are 12 p.m. for Squirts; 1:10 p.m. for PeeWees; 2:20 p.m. for Bantams and 3:30 p.m. for Midgets.

For other information, call Ron Brousseau (603-434-0736), or Dick Lavoie (617-692-6749).

New baseball fields planned

New baseball fields are being planned for the Wilmington Memorial Park on the site of the old Town Farm.

Jack Cushing and Paul Bova of the Wilmington Recreation Department discussed plans with the Wilmington Water and Sewer Commissioners April 4. The two men hope to get four or five baseball fields in the Town Park, across from Brewsters.

General Electric, the commissioners were told, will pay for the work with the understanding that the firm can have some of the play time allotted to its teams. The play time, Cushing said, will be on a "restricted basis."

No sites were definitely agreed to, but all the playing fields will be in the Main Street area of the Town Park. There will be no disturbance to the old Middlesex Canal or property that is on the further side of the canal.

SWEAT race May 4

The Shawsheen Watershed Environmental Action Team (SWEAT) will be sponsoring the seventh annual Great Race to the Sea Saturday, May 4.

The canoe race follows the Shawsheen and Merrimac Rivers from Tewksbury to Newburyport. The 42-mile race starts at 7 a.m. from the Knights of Columbus Hall on Route 38, Tewksbury. Safety inspections and post-position assignments begin at 6 p.m. The race ends at Michael's Harborside Restaurant at the US Rte 1 bridge in Newburyport.

The 29-mile bicycle race begins at noon at the Tewksbury Congregational Church (across Rte. 38 from Town Hall), with sign-in beginning at 11 a.m.

Pre-registration is $5 per person and $6 on the day of the race. Prizes will be awarded to top finishers in each race. Volunteers are needed to serve as spotters, counters, and bridge watchers.

For further information, and registration forms, call (after 6 p.m.) Bob Raueo at 851-9505 in Tewksbury or Rick Barry at 658-4725 in Wilmington.

Mono
ski

Skiing for paraplegics has moved forward within the past year with the introduction in the U.S. of the "mono-ski." Last week at the National Handicapped Ski Championships at Breckenridge, Colo., several versions of the mono-ski were demonstrated. One model was designed by Peter Axelsson of Beneficial Designs, Inc. of California, and will be marketed by a Texas firm, Intex. Axelsson is shown taking a run through the gates at Breckenridge.

Over 30 basketball

Picwell-Ahernco wins title

The Towne Auto Body championship reign came to an end Monday night when their Over-30 entry fell to Picwell-Ahernco in that league's championship game. Dave Trudel paced the champs with 29 points, while Doug Ahern was also red-hot with 27 points.

Sit
ski

Axelsson's other option for handicapped skiers is the Arroya, one of many sit-skis on the market. It can be used by paraplegics, low quadriplegics, multiple amputees, or persons weakened by conditions such as Multiple Sclerosis. The sit-ski is in the foreground, with the mono-ski in the rear.

Woburn
racer

John Harney of Woburn, a paraplegic, never fancied himself as a ski racer. Yet last week, he was among the sit ski racers at the National Handicapped Ski Championships last week. He is shown in an Arroya sit-ski.

WHS doctor for 18 years

Ralph Lepore honored

Dr. Ralph Lepore of Wilmington was recently honored by the Massachusetts State Athletic Directors Association for his work as team doctor at Wilmington High School for the past 18 years.

Dr. Lepore was presented with the District A Distinguished Service Award for Service to Athletics. Wilmington High School athletic director Jim Gillis, who presented the award, described Dr. Lepore as being dedicated and committed to the Wilmington High School athletes.

"Traditionally doctors take Wednesday off to play golf," noted Gillis. "Dr. Lepore took Mondays off to cover the junior varsity football game."

Eye Five Road Race May 18

May 12 through May 18 has been declared Journey For Sight Week in Wilmington.

It is the intent of the Wilmington Lions Club to organize and conduct the first annual Eye Five Road Race in conjunction with the Journey For Sight Week. Race profits will be donated to Massachusetts Lions Eye Research Fund, Inc. which funds basic research in vision and eye disorders by grants to organizations such as the Retina Foundation, the Joselin Clinic and others.

The race will be run May 18 at 9:30 a.m. from the K of C Hall in Wilmington. The K of C is located behind St. Thomas Church on Middlesex Avenue. It is a fast, accurate and well measured course with splits given at each mile. There will be an electronic finish line clock to ensure accurate times.

Trophys will be awarded to winners in all divisions. There will also be t-shirts to the first 200 entrants.

At the conclusion of the race each participant will receive a certificate indicating his order of finish. Refreshments will be served after the race, at which time a drawing will be held for numerous merchandise prizes donated by local merchants.

The entree fee is $5.00 pre-registration and $6.00 post entry. Pre-registration forms may be obtained by calling either Jim Buckley 658-4151 or Tom Pazyra 658-6640.

Early Bird softball tourney

The Tewksbury-Wilmington Elks Lodge 2070 will sponsor an open Early Bird one-pitch softball tournament beginning Friday, April 19, 20, and 21 through the following Friday, April 26, 27 and 28 at their own Hughes Field off South Street in Tewksbury.

All teams wishing to enter will be required to pay $75.00 per team. Any team registering or needing additional information or directions, contact Ernie Lightfoot at 658-6089 the Elk's Lodge at 657-6333.

Tune-up training

Handicapped ski racers participating in a competition training program at Winter Park, Colorado last month received instruction in ski tuning from David Dahlquist, a professional ski mechanic. From left, Matthew Kut of Acushnet, Mass., Brent Nedd of Boise, Idaho, Julie Stedman of Wilmington, Teddy Kennedy of Hyannisport, and Dahlquist. Skiers in the competition program also learned about sports psychology and physiology, and had daily on-snow training in ski racing.

the ticket sale will be used to provide scholarships for those students who wish to attend Sargent Camp, yet cannot afford it. The students of the three sixth grade classes will be leaving for a four day excursion to this environmental camp run by Boston University.

Three of the I.G.E. staff members, Kevin McArdle, Tom Conlon and Kris Hassan, will be accompanying the youngsters who have opted for this alternative educational experience.

Parents, teachers take on IGE students

Saturday evening March 30 the parents and teachers of the I.G.E. students donned their sneakers and tapped off against each other on the volleyball court.

The enthusiasm and energy present at the Tewksbury Junior High School gymnasium was inspiring, especially to the parents who managed to manifest a great display of athletic prowess and win both games.

The highlight of the evening was a basketball contest between mothers and students. Amid cheers and guffaws, the 10 players huffed and puffed down court. Although the mothers made a gallant effort and proved their good sportsmanship, their younger offspring managed to put the ball into the hoop several extra times.

Ralph the barber had his fence clipped by a trailer truck on Saturday morning. The fence is at the home of Ralph Allen of Church Street, Wilmington. It was struck by a truck driven by Warre G. Seng, Jr. of School Street, Woburn.

Wilmington police news

The arrest of a Wilmington man, John R. Thebeau Jr. of 6 Suncrest Ave., on drug-related charges has led to the confiscation of varying amounts of drugs and paraphernalia from a home in North Reading and a home in Wilmington.

Last Thursday Officers Jepson and Celata arrested Thebeau and charged him with trafficking in a controlled substance, believed to be cocaine, as well as possession of a Class B substance and possession of a Class B substance with intent to distribute. Thebeau was held overnight for an appearance in Woburn District Court.

Further charges and investigations will be made on the basis of evidence netted by the two search warrants.

At 4 a.m. Sunday, three people were arrested in Lucci's parking lot and charged with possession of cocaine, a Class B Controlled Substance. Officers Jim Burke and Pat King arrested Michael Mucci, 23, 10 Standish Rd., Stoneham, Teresa Fildoro, 22, 159 Vernon St., Tewksbury and Leanne Canavan, 19, 34 Pond St., Stoneham. All three were bailed for a Monday court appearance and Mucci was turned over to Wakefield Police on a default warrant held by that department.

Following the investigation of an accident on Woburn St. near Marie Drive early Sunday morning, two men were arrested and charged with operating under the influence. Only one of the two, however, was actually involved in the accident. Officer Pat King arrested Michael Lacey, 18, 3 Biggar Ave. Officer Jim Peterson arrested William Brookings, 18, of 4 Marcia Rd. Brookings was taken to the Regional Health Center by the fire department ambulance and later bailed from the health center.

Wednesday morning Officer Steve Mauriello arrested a Salem, N.H. man after a computer check revealed an outstanding warrant. Donald Moore, 23 Wheelerdam Rd., Salem was arrested and then turned over to the North Andover Police for court action.

Wednesday evening Officer Maureen LeGrand and Sgt. Vassallo arrested five youths after investigating a suspicious car on Birchwood Rd. Arrested were Paul Sullivan 17, 20 Birchwood Rd.; David Basbach, 18, 4 Robin Rd.; Reading; Robert Hailey, 18, 15 Pearle St., Reading; Kenneth Johns, 18, 25 Lincoln St., Reading; and Scott Menowski, 17, 25 Pittman Dr., Reading. All of the youths were charged with drinking in public and underage possession of liquor. Menowski was also charged with possession of a Class D drug.

Early Friday morning, Officers Legrand and Shepard arrested Noel Villanueva, 28, of 151 Beacon St., Lawrence for operating under the influence and failing to stop for traffic signals.

Saturday evening, Tewksbury police arrested Daniel Chase, Main St., Tewksbury by virtue of three default warrants issued by the Wilmington Police Department. He was bailed from the Wilmington station and then released to the Arlington Police on a default warrant issued by the Cambridge court. He was later bailed from there.

During the week of April 2 through April 9, Wilmington Police made 13 arrests and responded to three disturbances, two trespassing complaints, four trailbike complaints, nine alarms, one fire, and one domestic problem.

They investigated three accidents, two larcenies, two reports of suspicious activity, one report of a stolen vehicle, one breaking and entering, one assault and battery, one threat, and three reports of vandalism.

They also took four individuals into protective custody, recovered two stolen vehicles and responded two one call for medical assistance, one liquor related complaint and one call to assist another town department.

No missing persons, sex crimes, or firearms complaints were reported.

Absentee ballots at town hall

Will you be around to vote on April 20? The town election this year will be held at the end of the school vacation week, and some families might not be home.

Voters wishing to use absentee ballots may go to the town hall and vote over the counter in the town clerk's office. This method would be ideal for someone who will be out of town on the day of the election.

Another method of using an absentee ballot is to request it in writing. The ballot is then mailed to the voter. The voter would mark the ballot, have it notarized, and send it back in the mail. The ballot must be received at the Wilmington Post Office with the last mail on Saturday, April 20.

RE-ELECT

BOB PETERSON WILMINGTON SCHOOL COMMITTEE

Over the past three years, BOB PETERSON has worked to make sure every citizen of Wilmington, including the elderly, have benefited from the services of the Wilmington Public Schools. He is especially proud of the following achievements:

- Increased access by the senior citizens to the food service programs at Wilmington High School
- The volunteer senior citizen assistance program provided by Wilmington High School students to the senior citizens
- Holiday gifts and programs provided by Wilmington students to senior citizens.

In the next three years BOB PETERSON would like to bring the senior citizens of Wilmington the following:

- Increased access to all programs and facilities at the newly renovated high school
- A volunteer assistance program that will take advantage of the senior citizen's new home adjacent to the high school while utilizing the abilities of our current high school students.
- The participation and assistance of our students in the daily activities of the elderly and the participation of the elderly in our high school activities on a regular basis

Wilmington senior topics

Shut-in dinner

Easter Sunday, 30 local shut-ins received a catered dinner. These dinners, along with flowers were delivered by senior volunteers.

Wilmington has approximately 200 older citizens confined to hospitals or their own homes. Seniors hope to deliver a catered meal to all of them before the end of the year.

Additional housing

A list of residents over 66 without homes of their own is being compiled as well as those finding it difficult keeping their homes due to the expense of maintaining them. With the housing authority embarking on building additional housing in the town for the elderly, it is necessary to know how many seniors will be seeking one of these apartments once they are completed.

April social registration

Registration for the April therapeutic social on April 18 will be closing out on Tuesday, April 9. Those who have not signed up by that date will be placed on a waiting list.

Arts and crafts need help

The arts and crafts sessions at the Center are in need of more participants. It is hoped that this program will get back to the large number of seniors taking part in the past. All other programs held in the Center are very well attended. Those who would like to learn how to make some of the many beautiful crafts being made at these sessions are invited to have a senior teach them. Those with special talent are asked to be on hand to share it.

Colon cancer packets

Thursday, April 11, the Center will be distributing the colon cancer packet to Wilmington residents. Colon cancer is another of those diseases which is not usually detected until it is too late. Detection and correction can be made by making this simple test at home. Seniors are urged to take advantage.

Center closed April 15

Monday, April 15 is Patriots Day, a legal holiday, the Center will be closed. All appointments should be made accordingly. Write to congressmen

The Senate has voted on freezing the Social Security cost of living increases by an 11-9 vote. They also voted to cut Medicare. There is only one way for citizens to let the Senators know how they feel on these matters - write a letter to Senator Edward Kennedy and Senator John Kerry in Washington. The possibility of reversing the vote does exist - all seniors should make their feelings known.

Shriners Circus scheduled on May 6 to 12

The 1985 edition of the Shriners Circus will premier May 6 and continue through May 12 at the Shriners Auditorium in Wilmington. This all new show comes to Wilmington from playing to sell-out audiences from Puerto Rico to Springfield, Mass.

Fourteen shows featuring over 20 acts will be presented in three rings. Among the top flight performances will be "Tommy the Tusker," billed as the largest performing elephant in the world today.

Josep Marcan, world renowned animal trainer, will put his fourteen tigers through their paces. Also from the wild world of animals the Tony Diano elephants and Althoff's Wonder Bears, a new act from West Germany, and Howarth's Boxing Chimps will perform during the two hour 40 minute spectacle.

And of course the Clowns featuring the hilarious antics of Jorge Rosselle and his comedy model T along with the world famous Musical Italos from Italy.

The Shriners, sponsors of many family oriented events, are dedicated to the support of 22 hospitals for burned and crippled children. The Burns

Institute in Boston is one of the world's leading care, teaching and research centers for burns and is supported entirely by the Shriners. Care at the Burns Institute, as well as the Crippled children's hospital in Springfield and all other Shriners Hospitals, is provided at no cost to parents or guardians.

Circus tickets are now on sale at the Shriners Auditorium, by mail, or by telephone with Mastercard or VISA. All seats are reserved. Admission is $6.00 for adults and $3.00 for children under 13. Group rates are available, and parking is free.

Show times are Monday through Sunday at 7:00 p.m., with matinees Monday, Saturday and Sunday at 1:30 p.m. Special school shows will be held Tuesday through Friday at 10:00 a.m. The Shriners Auditorium is located at 99 Fordham Road off route 93 at exit 13. Directional signs are posted. For more information call 657-4203.

Martin's Pond No. Reading

It's just another tall tale

By JIM ROUILLARD

At first it seemed as if their small boat might be capsized and pulled under the waters of Martin's Pond in North Reading — crunched asunder by some huge underwater beast.

And nine-year-old Angelica Fortini was utterly delighted.

"Oh great," she whooped to her father John. "Do they have sharks in here too?"

This isn't just another tale of the one that got away. It's not even a fish story exactly, though it involves fish. And it's not tall, but broad, with a diameter wider than the little boat from which the Fortinis — father and daughter — were fishing.

Director of Food Services in the Stoneham Public Schools for the past 12 years — John Fortini is also an avid angler. And he said he had taken Angelica with him to the North Reading pond, which is one of his favorite spots for large-mouth bass.

His catch had already been plentiful, he said, and he had strung four three-and-a-half to four-pound bass on a line from the stern of the boat, to keep them alive as close as possible to supper-time.

A gourmet cook who owns to always having had a very good palate (his claim was reinforced by some of the recipes he later discussed) the 36-year-old Fortini was probably wool-gathering about the toothsome taste of bass fresh from the skillet, when he noticed the boat was rocking.

"My daughter likes to rock the boat," he said. "So I absent-mindedly told her to stop it. Then I looked down and saw the line that held my catch in the water was being pulled, alternately taut, then loose." Fortini said he yanked on the line — and father and daughter got a glimpse of something monstrous and formless, just below the surface.

Once she saw the vague shape, distorted and exaggerated by the murk of the water, Angelica was ecstatic, her father said: "Oh great!" she cooed, and clapped her hands in a frenzy of delight, as the tug of the unknown leviathan almost pulled the gunwale of the boat beneath the waves. "Do they have sharks here, too?"

Fortini said that "Jaws II" had been on television the night before — and "it's not that Angelica really associated sharks with devouring people, or takes delight in it, because she knows that in the movies it's only a mock-up. But I guess she just wanted to see sharks in a frenzy devouring fish" but not herself or her father.

But it wasn't a Hollywood mock-up of a shark that was assailing their small craft.

It was something real.

"The first time I pulled on the line," Fortini said, "the granddaddy of all snapping turtles came part way up, then disappeared. The second time he came up, with the big head of one of the bass disappearing down his jaws."

Neither party wanted to relinquish his hold, but "I couldn't lift him into the boat because he was so heavy, and he didn't want to give up his meal. I don't know how much he weighed — but I'm not weak," said the six-foot-plus former defensive end for Stoneham High's football team.

"I hoped to drag him in and give him to the Stone Zoo — because though I've seen plenty of snapping turtles, this was by far the biggest I've ever encountered." The reptile's shell was almost a yard in diameter, Fortini estimated.

But the heavy weight of the turtle — even though it was buoyed somewhat by the water — proved too much even for Fortini's broad shoulders. He couldn't bring it into the boat, he said, so he had to cut his losses — relinquishing both fish and turtle.

FISH HEADS AND TURTLE TAILS: John Fortini, above, recently related a minor humor/horror story of Martin's Pond in North Reading. Fortini, an enthusiastic angler and hunter, explained that he never smiles — and though he's pictured above in civilian dress — the Stoneham native would undoubtedly be happier clothed in hunting or fishing togs.

World Health Days

President Ronald Reagan has proclaimed April 7 as World

Health Day and the weeks of April 1 through April 14 as World Health Weeks. The worldwide theme being "Healthy Youth — Our Best Resource," in recognition of the vital importance of young people as leaders of the future and the necessity to prevent needless deaths and disability due to disease and accidents which take a high toll among our youth. World Health Day is celebrated by 164 countries including the United States. It is the only health observance that focuses on the entire field of health, bringing together all health specialties and interests. It calls attention to what it means to be healthy and to what can be done to resolve health problems and improve health conditions. It expresses both personal and social health concerns, local, national and global, affording an opportunity to reflect upon our own health and the health of others, whether in our families, neighborhoods and communities, or across the country and around the world. One true measure of a nation or a state/county/city, is the health of its people and the health of Americans is inseparably linked with the health of peoples throughout the world. It is a commitment to the future — to a brighter tomorrow — based on the goal of health for all.

Fashion Show

GETTING READY FOR a spirited fashion show at the Burlington Marriott are, l-r, Linda York, Arlington; Lori Jackson, and Mona Eliassen, Winchester. Three Winchester boutiques will show the latest spring-summer fashions April 14.

The best of local fashion will be shown at a fashion show in the ballroom of the Burlington Marriott, Sunday, April 14 at 2 p.m.

Three Winchester boutiques, The Irish Shop, Calista, and Elizabeth of Winchester, will display their new lines of spring and summer fashions for women. Mr. Tux and Proving Ground, both of Burlington, will show tuxedos and casual fashion for men. Shear Creations of Winchester will arrange hair and makeup for the models.

Producing and arranging this show is Trina Eliassen of Swept-Away Productions of Winchester. "It's the Fashion Show of the 80's," she says, "with all the fashion displays enhanced by our musical selections, choreography, lighting, and special effects."

"A key to the fashion shows," Mr. Eliassen added, "is to get a diversity of fashions so that you have something appealing to everyone." Elizabeth of Winchester will show wedding and prom gowns, and evening wear. Calista will display her fine women's apparel and lingerie for patio or loungewear. The Irish Shop will show "All the best of Ireland."

"We are really looking forward to being able to introduce our new line to the public, and all the town residents who have been so supportive since we opened this past September," said Pat Bonnell from Calista, echoing the sentiments of all the shops involved.

In addition, four designers will also have their work shown. Sarah Campbell, Cambridge, will show cotton and linen stylish daytime casuals. Susan Reed of Reed Scranton, Cambridge will display "ladylike silks." Luiza, Winchester, will show "upbeat sweat outfits, appropriate for everything from punk to cocktails," and tropical island wear.

Angel Morello of Shear Creations said, "We're excited to have the opportunity to show the residents of the community that the creative styling for the 80's is happening right now in their home town."

Advance tickets and further information are available at any of the shops mentioned.

Tall tale

The snapping turtle, by the way, whose lightning bite and vicious temper are well-known to anyone who has ever tangled with the smaller, more usual, 20-pound-or-so versions in or near Middlesex rivers and ponds, is a strictly American breed.

They dwell only in fresh water, according to zoologists, and bear the ominous Latin name of Chelydra serpentina — with a wide distribution throughout the United States. Snapping turtles grow to a considerable size, researchers say, and derive their name from their ferocity in captivity, and their habit of biting or snapping at everything that comes in their way.

Called also alligator terrapin and alligator tortoise, they are voracious flesh-eaters — and are prized as a food source for humans as well.

But John and Angelica Fortini took back no food, fish or turtle, that day.

The lean and rangy Fortini, garbed in jeans and cowboy boots when he told his story, and wearing a belt-buckle proclaiming "The right to keep and bear arms," is also a hunter, though he said "I don't catch or shoot anything that my family doesn't eat. It's a sport — and it provides food."

And the game he has bagged and recipes which he described provided a mouth-watering sample of childhood memories, for this writer at least, of partridge, pheasant, squirrel, rabbit, venison, and, yes, even turtle.

The Stoneham native and long-time resident, who lives in Billerica now with his wife, Celene (Corbett) and their two children, the dauntless Angelica, and one-year-old Dominic, said both he and Celene cook the game that he catches and shoots.

Fortini said he has been cooking since grammar school, when he would get home after class and give a stir to the spaghetti sauce his father, Eddie Fortini, had earlier put to simmer on the stove.

(The elder Fortini is well-known in Stoneham and surrounding towns for his former company, Flo's Catering, and as one of the first and the most vigorous champion of elders in Stoneham Council on Aging for almost a decade, and spark-plugged efforts to clean up the once-derelict town infirmary on Elm Street, to provide the town's current Senior Citizen Center.)

From Stoneham High, John Fortini went on to the University of Massachusetts at Amherst, where he earned a B.S. degree in hotel, restaurant and travel administration. There, he said, he minored in nutrition and took many culinary courses, since cooking has always fascinated him.

He prefers cooking in quantity, he added, to feeding just one or two people, and he doesn't like to follow recipes: "I'll read a recipe once, then put it away and do my own thing," he said.

His thoughts on spices? Use them with imagination, he recommended. "There are a lot of spices people don't know about — or use in only one way. Take oregano. It's good in spaghetti sauce, but it's also good with beef — and rosemary can be delicious with pork as well as with lamb."

He described acorn squash, filled with a tuna stuffing and topped with a little nutmeg — and as for wild rabbit, he suggested whole cloves, if you want to kill its gamey taste: "Yet you don't taste the cloves. Soak the rabbit in red wine, with the cloves, before cooking — and be sure to use red wine if you're going to serve the meat on a bed of rice, because the red wine improves the color of the flesh."

"Presentation is very important, because 99 percent of the people eat with their eyes. Garnishing is an inexpensive

MARTIN'S POND UNION BAPTIST CHURCH

CHURCH SERVICES • 11 A.M.
SUNDAY SCHOOL 9:30 A.M.
PASTOR — KENNETH E. CALDBECK

Welcome

IN ALL OF NORTH READING, according to police, there is no sign which bears the simple legend: "Martin's Pond." So, with the kind permission of Union Baptist Church Pastor Kenneth Caldbek, whose church sits on a small knoll overlooking the pond, we present the only sign we know which indicates the pond which is said to harbor a sizable snapping turtle.

device, but it improves the whole meal by improving the appearance."

As for his hunting, Fortini said he is not a trophy-collector. He was pleased when he bagged an eight-point, 190-pound buck one year but: "I do it for the sport and for the meat. I think that's what's important."

He added that if more people thought of guns in this context, there might be less of a brouhaha over the right to keep and bear arms. "What you've got to do," he said, "is to teach people how to respect the gun first — not to take it away from people. If you explain to a kid why a gun is to be used properly — and ONLY properly — then he'll respect it, and put it to its correct use."

To return to Martin's Pond and the turtle that got away with the fish — John said he and Angelica did not go home entirely empty-handed from North Reading that day. They managed to save the head of one of the large-mouthed bass — the only tangible evidence of their encounter with the beast from four fathoms.

As for his recipe for snapping turtle — I forgot to ask.

RACE

New England Memorial Hospital in Stoneham will hold its eighth annual 10 kilometer road race around Spot Pond on Sunday, May 19 at 10:00 a.m. The pre-entry fee is $5 with late registration $6 and includes a "10 Health K's" t-shirt. Registration forms are available through Public Relations, NEH, 665-1740, ext. 414.

RUMMAGE SALE

Two-day Rummage Sale, Wednesday, April 24 (6:00-9:00 p.m.) and Thursday, April 25 (9:00 a.m. - 1:00 p.m.) Chidley Hall, First Congregational Church, Winchester on the Common. Telephone 729-9180. Sale includes men's, women's and children's clothing and shoes, white elephants, small appliances. Free admission. Sponsored by the Women's Association.

REHAB SALE

A spectacular sale of women's and children's night and leisure wear, open to the public, and proceeds for the benefit of patients at the New England Rehabilitation Hospital, Woburn, will be sponsored by the Volunteers Association of the Hospital on Friday, April 26.

The sale will be from 12:30-6 p.m.

Jean Silvagni of Lynnfield, Director of Volunteers at the Hospital, announced that the special sale of salesmen's samples and other attractive merchandise will be sold at wholesale prices.

The popular event is held twice each year and is made possible through the generosity and cooperation of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Becker of Lynnfield, widely known among wholesale and business people.

Mrs. Silvagni pointed out the sale would give an opportunity to buy for mother's day, vacations, summer and cruises. Earlier sales she said had been a great success.

BLOODMOBILES

Upcoming American Red Cross bloodmobiles in the Eastern Middlesex Region are as follows: April 11, Thursday, Northeast Vocational School, Wakefield, 9 a.m.-2 p.m.; April 14, Sunday, Melrose Masons, Masonic Temple, 8 a.m.-1 p.m.; April 14, Sunday, Reading Masons and K of C, K of C Hall, 9 a.m.-3 p.m.; April 26, Friday, Immaculate Conception Church, Malden, 2-8 p.m.

There is good news for the over 65-year-old donor. The age limitation has been lifted provided the donor first gave blood by the age of 59 and is still in good health. The Red Cross Blood Services encourages everyone to continue giving as long as possible.

New donors are desperately needed to supplement the ranks of the generous long-time givers. When one considers the lives his pint of blood might save, an hour of time is not too much to give. Unable to give? The Eastern Middlesex Region can use your talents in many other ways. Please call Janice Wilson, Office of Volunteers and Blood Services, 665-1351, for more information.

NORTH SHORE CC

"Running to Win: A conference on Women and Politics" is being presented by the Division of Continuing Education, North Shore Community College on Saturday, April 27, from 8:30 a.m. - 4:00 p.m. Area women politicians as well as former candidates will lead workshops on topics which are pertinent to conducting a successful campaign. Cost for the course is $30.00, $15.00 for full-time students. Preregistration is required. For more information and brochure, call the Division of Continuing Education at 927-4850, ext. 324.

cancel. The cost of the covers will be $1.00 each. An SASE is required for all mail orders. Requests for covers should be sent to The Malden Stamp Club, P.O. Box 214, Malden, Ma. 02148.

The show will be open to the public on Saturday, April 13, from 10:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m., and on Sunday, April 14, from 11:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m.

The exhibition will be by the members of the club, and awards for the best exhibits will be presented on Sunday.

In addition to the exhibition and the stamp dealers, other features include the U.S. Postal Sub Station, chance board, snack bar, and door prize. Admission is free.

Club meetings are held on the 2nd and 4th Wednesday of each month at 8:00 p.m. at the Mystic Side Congregational Church, Main Street, Everett.

CHILD SAFETY

Joane Publications, a Boston area publisher, has recently released a unique safety book for young children.

The book, entitled "The Bunny System" uses a doll and a bunny, brought to life through photographs, to teach safety tips in a non-frightening story form. The story covers such topics as handling encounters with strangers, the use of the buddy system, and other safety measures.

"The Bunny System" is one in a series of safety books for children that Joane Publications will be releasing over the next year. It is available at book stores throughout New England, including Lauriat's and The Harvard Cooperative Bookstore.

AUCTION

On Saturday, April 13, bidding will start at 10:00 a.m. Jim Murray, a licensed auctioneer, promises the day will be lively and entertaining. The auction will take place at the Arts Center, 25 Woburn St., Reading (side entrance to Congregational Church on Sanborn St.) Proceeds will go to the Creative Arts For Kids and Adults Organization.

Merchants from Reading and other towns and friends of Creative Arts have donated many wonderful items and services. With Mr. Murray's professional auctioneer voice and gavel in hand items such as a tune-up for your car, pizzas for Friday nights for a month, a weekend at a ski resort in Maine, bikes, furniture, decorated cakes, fluorescent lights, and professional services will be going once, going twice, going three times and gone to the highest bidder. If you've never been to a real live auction, join us for the fun, if you have, come and bid on the item that suits your fancy!!

Save the day, Saturday, April 13 from 10-4 at the Arts Center and help support the Arts. For more information call 942-0538.

THETA FLEA FESTIVAL

If you love looking for a bargain, and getting a bargain, there is an event coming up in Melrose that is just for you.

The annual gigantic Theta Flea Market will be held Saturday, May 11, 9 A.M. to 3 P.M. at the Melrose Armory on Main Street, across from Pine Banks Park.

The Theta Flea Festival derives its name from the sponsor of the event, the charitable sorority, Phi Theta Xi.

Thousands of items are offered for sale each year at the festival, ranging from crafts, books, plants and collectibles to hand-stencilled picnic baskets, antiques, games and homemade preserves.

It is expected that over 100 booths, with all kinds of items, will be set up at the festival.

A variety of tasty foods, including baked goods made by Theta members, will be on sale throughout the day.

All proceeds from the festival will go to Melrose-Wakefield Hospital, a non-profit institution.

HEARTSAVER

The Lahey Clinic will offer a three-hour course on "Heart Saver" techniques of emergency cardiac care, on Wednesday, April 24.

Presented as a public service and open to any interested person, the "Heart Saver" course provides information on such areas as the signs of a heart attack, basic emergency cardiac procedures, risk factors that can lead to heart disease, one-person CPR for adults, and how to aid a choking person.

The session is scheduled from 6 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. in the Lahey Clinic Medical Center's Alumni Auditorium.

Interested persons are asked to register by April 17 by calling 273-8733. A $4 fee will be charged to cover the cost of materials.

The Lahey Clinic Medical Center is located on Mall Road in Burlington, adjacent to the Burlington Mall and the New England Executive Park.

MOVIE REVIEWS

Rochelle Flynn

My New Partner/Seventeen

My New Partner Starring Philippe Noiret, Thierry Lhermitte, Regine, Grace De Capitani. Directed by Claude Zidi. Screenplay by Zidi. Rated R (profanity, nudity, violence).

It is really amazing what the French consider to be riotous comedy. It must be taken into consideration that the French nation, on a whole, considers Jerry Lewis to be the epitome of high humor. Now, the Americans may appreciate Lewis for his charity work, but when was the last time that the man was the cause of a deep belly laugh?

Keeping all of this in mind, it becomes clearer why the French chose My New Partner as the best film of 1984, and Claude Zidi as best director. They simply have a different sense of humor.

It is not that My New Partner is cinematically terrible, it is not. Instead, it is a slick, middle-of-the-road film that takes no chances, and is, if anything, too easily digestible. The laughs are right where you expect them, the plot is decipherable within minutes and with the exception of Philippe Noiret, contains no memorable performers. However, most films, American and foreign, could fit this description, as most films are, quite simply, mediocre. What is surprising is that this particular mediocre movie is considered to be great by an entire nation.

Noiret, whose lumpy profile and mustachioed face has been in flicks for years, tries to develop a real character out of Rene, a Parisian detective who accepts graft with both hands and almost always looks the other way. However, the script really is against him, as is his new partner, Francois (Thierry Lhermitte). Lhermitte looks wonderful — tall, dark, with intense, smoldering eyes. He does not, however, stand out as a strong comedic talent. Francois is the recent graduate of a police academy who walks the straight and narrow with a vengeance. But, there is very little substance to this guy, as his easy corruption proves. And, there is very little to Lhermitte, who lacks the basic talent and comedic edge of Noiret. However, putting blame where it is due, most of the bumbling slapstick that these actors are forced to endure is the work of the director, Zidi.

Perhaps this review sounds harsher than was intended, as My New Partner has a few really funny moments in it, especially in the first half of the film. And, if you are looking for a pleasant diversion, it fits the bill. It's just that, considering the hype surrounding it as an award-winning comedy, it is disappointing.

Seventeen Co-produced, photographed, recorded and edited by Joel DeMott and Jeff Kreines. (profanity, adult themes.)

Seventeen is a documentary that was originally scheduled to air on PBS as part of a six-film series entitled, Middletown, but was considered too objectionable to play on television and dropped from the series.

Joel DeMott and Jeff Kreines literally strapped on a camera and followed around a group of high school seniors in Muncie, Indiana in 1982. The kids come complete with their own social mores, all of which are now captured forever on celluloid. The heart of the film revolves around Lynn, a feisty brunette with a filthy mouth that is having a one-sided romance with a young black man at school. This relationship nearly sparks off a race war in her neighborhood that involves everyone, even the parents.

Parents, as a matter of fact, live on the periphery of the lives of their children, a point made especially clear by Lynn's parents, who act more like older siblings than guardians.

Other aspects of American youth touched upon by the filmmakers are unwed pregnancy, rebellion at school, an off-screen death, drunken keg parties and lots of marijuana. The language is often raw, as is the film itself. Don't expect a documentary to give the slick finish of a Hollywood production, but then again, don't expect a Hollywood production to have the honesty of a rough documentary.

Although filmmakers DeMott and Kreines interest and shock us, the two hour film is too long. We get the point after the first hour, and it's just too boring, and depressing, to keep hammering away at the audience. Also, the film itself is sometimes a little muddled, as it jumps around from one uninitiated teen to another. However, all else being said, it might be beneficial for a studio executive to see this documentary, so that Hollywood doesn't keep perpetuating the Karate Kid/Flamingo Kid myth of American teens.

Monumental experience in Vermont

All are invited to tour the world's largest Marble Exhibit located at the Vermont Marble Company in the heart of the Green Mountains. The tour of the Marble Exhibit is self-conducted and lasts approximately one hour. In addition to the permanent displays, the Exhibit features a visitors' gallery where one can watch men working in the factory; the "Hall of Presidents", a bas-relief of each President carved in statuary white marble; a slide show that explains how marble is used in buildings; a "marble market" which offers low discount prices on factory seconds; and a well-stocked gift shop.

April 27 at the Centre Methodist Church, 7 Washington St., Malden. Bring Staunton Sets and Boards. Light lunches and snacks available. For further information and advance registration, call 964-1428.

VERMONT MARBLE EXHIBIT
Route 3
Proctor, Vermont 05765

The Exhibit is located on Route 3 in the New England village of Proctor, Vermont where marble is everywhere—even on the sidewalks. Open daily from late May to late October, 9 AM to 5:30 PM, the Exhibit offers plenty of free parking and is very convenient to the New England Maple Museum and the Wilson Castle. For more information, call the Vermont Marble Company at 802-459-3311.

Spinsters sought

The Museum of American Textile History is looking for spinsters. No, the museum is not remaking the movie "Seven Brides for Seven Brothers"

Coming Attractions

By William Pacino

or opening a new mail order bride business.

Instead, the museum is looking for the kind of spinsters who like to spin yarn on their spinning wheels for "The Great American Spinning Bee", highlight of the Museum's 13th Annual Sheep Shearing Festival on Sunday, May 19.

Spinsters from throughout New England will set up their colorful wheels on the Old North Andover Common to re-create the 18th century spinning bees held on Boston Common. Spinsters who are interested in participating may contact Debby Horowitz, festival coordinator, at the museum, 800 Massachusetts Ave.,

North Andover, telephone: 686-0191.

Also part of the day-long festivities will be a crafts fair co-sponsored by the North Andover chapter of the American Field Service. The fair will feature 50 exhibitors working in stained glass, batik, pottery, quilts and other media. Applications for the crafts fair are now available and people interested in selling their goods may contact Joanne Anderson, AFS fair coordinator, 45 Elmwood St., North Andover, telephone 686-5296.

Other festival events will include sheep shearing, co-sponsored by the Essex County Sheep and Wool Growers' Association; sheepdog demonstrations; handspun yarn competition; live music, and food booths.

Fish as Art

An ancient tradition finds a new setting with the opening of the New England Aquarium's new exhibit, "Fish As Art: Reflections in an Oriental Pool". This new exhibition features living animals as actual works of art. Just as artists express themselves through their chosen media, skilled oriental fish breeders create beautiful and expressive patterns and forms. The notion of living art is an ancient concept which originated in China almost 1000 years ago. Over the centuries, the skill of selective fish breeding developed the unusual features in fishes, which enhanced the value and beauty of the carp.

Brilliant goldfish and iridescent koi, all relatives of the olive-colored river carp, are the focus of this serene exhibit. A waterfall, a Japanese rock garden and a red lacquer fish pool give the gallery a sense of oriental timelessness. Koi are bred for bright colors as well as the harlequin patterns on their backs. Called "swimming flowers", these fish are to be viewed from above. The prized goldfish, on the other hand, displaying their bubble eyes, pom-pom head pieces and elaborate tails parade in raised tanks.

Both Koi and goldfish were created by man, not nature. Both will revert to natural, drab colors if they escape to the wild.

"Fish as Art" will be on display through March 1986.

From the serenity of a koi pool to the strong beauty of marble, from spinning wheels to chess boards, COMING ATTRACTIONS sticks its nose into quite a few different sorts of things to do. But we miss a few and could use your help in coming up with events of interest to all. If you know of such, and you can see we do not play favorites, write, care of this local newspaper and tell us all about it. Our interests and curiosities are as diverse as there are things to try and do.

Elderly Housing

Lincoln School accepting applications

The Lincoln School House located at 26 Crescent St. in Wakefield is now accepting applications for their congregate housing units. The building is ideally located one block from the downtown shopping area, and in close proximity to public transportation.

Congregate living is designed as a housing alternative for older adults who may no longer wish to live alone, and/or may have physical limitations. It is for those individuals who do not require 24-hour supervision or care. One of the major goals of congregate living is to promote and maintain personal independence.

Three five bedroom congregate suites are located on the first floor of the Lincoln School House. Each suite provides individual tenants with a private bedroom/sitting room area in which personal items can be safely stored. Common areas within each suite include a fully equipped kitchen, comfortable dining area, spacious living room, and three bathrooms. There is also a laundry room within each suite.

The lower level of the Lincoln School House contains the offices of the Wakefield Housing Authority, Wakefield Council on Aging, and a community meal site/senior center. The meal site offers a hot lunch Monday through Friday to residents of Wakefield 60 years of age and older. The senior center offers recreational and educational programs. The office of the Congregate Housing Coordinator is also located on site.

Supportive services such as case management, homemaker, home-health aide, and visiting nurse are available for those tenants who may require some assistance with daily tasks.

Interested applicants must be 60 years of age or older or permanently disabled, their gross annual income and interest from assets must not exceed allowable government limits for public housing, and they must have the ability to function independently with supportive services.

For further information about congregate housing, please contact Beth Greenberg, Congregate Housing Coordinator, Lincoln School House, 266 Crescent St., Wakefield, MA 245-1192.

Soil test can improve your garden

A soil test can reveal 17 vital facts about garden soil-nutrient levels, essential trace elements or dangerous toxic metals.

The Waltham Suburban Experiment Station operates the latest in soil testing equipment. This computerized service provides analysis of 15 fertilizer and mineral elements vital to plant growth. It also provides exact concentrations of toxic heavy metals.

There is a $5.00 charge for each soil test. Special soil testing bags should be purchased in advance. Included with the soil bag will be instructions for taking a soil sample, a questionnaire about the soil and an envelope for mailing.

Soil bags may be purchased by:

1. Sending a request and check

(only) for $5.00 per sample to: Soil Testing Laboratory, Suburban Experiment Station, 240 Beaver Street, Waltham, Ma. 02254.

2. Picking them up in person at the Experiment Station, Hours 8:30-12:00 and 1:00-4:30.

3. Calling (617) 891-0650.

4. Contacting the Middlesex County Extension Service at 369-4845 or 862-2380.

SATISFACTION GUARANTEED! If after you take your carpet remnant home you don't like the color, the texture, or if it's the wrong size, simply return it to us and we'll gladly exchange it for something you like better! Your ultimate satisfaction is always our concern!

ONE CALL DOES IT ALL — Sue and Joe Merenda of Merry Maids introduce a new carpet cleaning service to the area.

Merry Maids nationwide

"The professionalism and consistency of quality service is what has helped Merry Maids, Inc. grow from one to 196 franchises nationwide in less than five years," say Joe and Sue Merenda, owners of one of 18 Massachusetts area franchises. Merry Maids' customers have the assurance that an entire corporation is working for them and this group effort offers insurance and bonding protection not often found in the home cleaning industry.

Joe and Sue find that their experience in business management and medicine serves them well in their present business: "We find that we're better able to communicate with our staff and help them understand exactly what our customers want. This makes for a happier and more effective crew."

In addition to well-trained employees, Merry Maids furnishes all equipment needed to do the job, including vacuums and household cleaning solutions. This is not only convenient for the customer but it also assures that the employees are familiar with the products and how they work.

Merry Maids works on a team concept with two people working together on an average assignment, doing a thorough job of dusting and vacuuming, plus a complete kitchen and bathroom clean-up, which includes washing floors the old fashioned way: on hands and knees. The first time in a home, Merry Maids will do an in-depth cleaning and then maintain the home on a weekly or bi-weekly basis.

Along with general home cleaning, Merry Maids of Woburn also offers expanded services including window cleaning, dry foam extraction upholstery cleaning, and a completely dry rug cleaning method. After careful research and testing, Joe feels that these two dry cleaning methods not only offer superior cleaning results but afford the customer protection from rapid resoiling, mildew, split seams and shrinkage. Customers enjoy the added convenience of the immediate use of their freshly cleaned carpets as well as the use of their furniture, in most cases, within one to two hours.

"We enjoy meeting our customers," say Joe and Sue, "and we make sure to get to know them face to face by personally supervising all first-time jobs." Cleaning fees are based on free in-home estimates and customers are encouraged to explain in detail what they want done.

Will your house be marketed...or just shown?

Showing a house isn't the same as marketing it. Simply showing a house for sale is only a small part of the marketing job.

Carlson Real Estate brokers put together a winning home selling strategy, from pricing your home properly to advertising and displaying it effectively to closing the sale professionally. That's marketing.

Visit or call any one of Carlson Real Estate's 16 residential offices and receive a free Home Seller's Guide.

This 28-page booklet is a complete guide to home selling; full of hints, tips, hard facts and honest answers to tough questions. Read it... then you'll be ready to really market your home — with Carlson.

Proudly Presenting A New Development in Wilmington

"Middlesex Pines"

Appreciate a high standard of comfort at our newest and finest development now under construction.
Enjoy the luxuries of a two-car garage, 2 1/2 baths,
first floor family room and a first floor laundry room.
Superb floor plans and your dreams in options will be yours to select. Secluded, yet convenient, Mid-diesex Pines is only minutes to Rte 93 and a short walk to stores and trains. Two sidewalks, underground utilities and street ending in cul-de-sacs are a part of a thoughtful plan to preserve the quiet charm of this new community.

Phase I has been "Sold Out." However Phase II is now ready for your new home.

Prices range from low $200's.
Directions: Midway between Rte. 93 and Rte. 38 off Rte. 62 in Wilmington.

Green Grove Convalescent Home of North Reading currently utilizes full-time, part-time and flexible scheduling for staff. In our Nursing Dept. we currently have 12-hour weekend positions which pay 1 1/2 times base wage. Additionally, our new wage scale allows us to offer a starting rate for new staff which gives credit for prior experience in health care. Our "Pay-Instead-Of-Benefits" plan is tailored for full-time staff who do not wish to receive our benefit package, but instead wish to receive a higher pay rate.

If you are interested in learning to help the elderly and assisting those who cannot help themselves, please contact us for an interview. Green Grove is conveniently located off Routes 93 and 28. If you would like to give health care a try and work in a home-like atmosphere delivering quality care to the elderly, please contact the Nursing Office, Monday-Friday, 7 a.m.-4 p.m.

PLANNING RETIREMENT

Before making up your mind about your retirement years and where you'd like to spend them, psychologists say, it makes good sense to think about the kind of person you are. Are cultural activities in the area important to you? Would you like to live in a retirement community where there are a number of recreational activities? Is it a factor in where you'd like to live?

More and more American see themselves as active and vigorous, according to recent surveys—and they expect more from a retirement community. Virtually all, according to an independent survey from Sunbelt Marketing Research, want some kind of active recreational facilities and want to live in a metropolitan area where cultural facilities, colleges and universities are all nearby. For many, the ideal retirement community is a place such as La Cholla Hills, built by Fairfield Communities, located in the Sunbelt city of Tucson, Arizona.

The climate is excellent—300 days of sunshine a year. Recreational activities in the community and cultural pursuits in nearby Tucson abound. Fairfield's La Cholla Hills is the first major planned retirement community in Arizona to be certified by the Pima County Sheriff's Department as meeting the latest in residential building security standards. Many feel it's the perfect combination of wide open spaces, an easy-going lifestyle and sophisticated activities and facilities.
